British Take Over French Arms Contracts

Walsh Asks Defense Get Clear Track

Would Have President Get Right to Stop Work on Planes Except for U. S.

Washington, June 20 (AP)—After hearing testimony that 10,000 planes would not be adequate for a proposed two-ocean fleet, the House naval committee recommended today a Navy air force of 15,000 planes.

The testimony was given by Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the Naval air corps, who recalled that a lately enacted law put a 10,000-plane ceiling on the Navy. But that, he reminded the committee, was before a new $4,000,000,000 expansion of the fleet, designed to give it the size of a two-ocean Navy, was projected.

The committee agreed to have Representative Maas (R-Minn.), who first advocated the 15,000 plane figure, offer the necessary legislation as an amendment when the bill providing for the new fleet expansion comes up in the House.

The amendment also would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to plan for whatever additional aircraft strength changing world conditions might dictate.

Will Buy Arms

Washington, June 20 (AP)—The British were reported by Secretary Morgenthau today already to be taking over French armament contracts in the United States.

Without waiting for developments on the French offer to surrender, Morgenthau said, the British have been arranging with manufacturers to deliver to them any war materials contracted for but not taken by their ally.

Walsh Makes Suggestion

At the capitol the Senate naval affairs committee had before it today a suggestion by Chairman Walsh (D., Mass.) that it might be advisable to give the President authority to halt work on all private and foreign airplane contracts in order to bring production for defense up to requirements.

Walsh made the suggestion, it was reported, in questioning Capt. Sidney M. Kraus, a representative of the President's defense commission, in a closed session of the committee yesterday.

Kraus and Fred Eaton, another commission representative, said that a proposed limitation of seven per cent on profits under government plane contracts might retard defense construction. Walsh asked Kraus why the President should not be given power to commandeer raw materials and other supplies essential for constructing army and navy planes.

When Kraus said he thought this would not serve the purpose, Walsh asked:

"Would it help any if the President had authority to stop all contracts for airplanes and contracts with foreign countries, to build up our own defenses?"

Kraus replied that "as long as we are going to depend, to a considerable extent, upon private manufacture, privately directed, I think that this is an inappropriate moment to materially change the basis upon which they have been operating."

Latin-American Bases

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Establishment of Latin-American bases for the United States navy, a usually well-informed source said today, may be one of the subjects raised at the projected Pan American conference on military and economic defense.

Both aircraft and fleet bases would be involved in any such discussion, this official said.

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles announced yesterday that the government had communicated with all 21 American republics, suggesting that an extraordinary conference be held immediately to consider all problems confronting the hemisphere as a result of the turn of events abroad.

The conference proposal was made known after Secretary Hull disclosed that notes had been sent Monday to Germany and Italy saying that the United States would not countenance any transfer of the British, French or Dutch possessions in the new world to non-American country.

The matter of navy bases in Latin-American nations, it was

German Bomber Fleet Raids English East Coast

Transmitted by radio from London to New York, this picture shows, according to the English caption, damage done in a Cambridge-shire village by a night bombing raid from the Nazi air force. An air fleet, bombing the east coast of Britain, signaled what some observers thought was the start of the "battle for England." Twelve civilians were reported killed in the raid, and 11 injured. Cambridgeshire is north of London.

Nazi Army Engulfs Brest, Lyon; Says Anglo Reprisals Are Begun

Reich Gets 200,000 More Prisoners Including General; High Command's Report Says Assaults Payment for British Raids Since May

(By The Associated Press)

Berlin, June 20.—German military might surged further over France today, engulfing Brest on the Brittany coast and Lyon near the Alpine frontier, even as contact was made with French peace emissaries and an aerial blitzkrieg was launched against England.

Significantly, the German high command declared that its air force "now has begun reprisals against England."

It reported capture of Brest, a port of entry for thousands of American doughboys of 1917-1918, but it remained for the French to acknowledge occupation of Lyon, their third largest city.

Brest and Lyon were but segments of the German victory across the width of France. Swift-moving columns also crossed the lower Loire river between Nantes, near the mouth, and Tours, erstwhile provisional capital of the French government.

The Reich added more than 200,000 men to its legions of war prisoners, according to the high command's daily communiqué, and among them was General Aitmev, commander of the French 10th army. The 200,000 represented yesterday's captures.

The Japanese army had maintained barricades around the British and French concessions in the northern China city since June 14, 1939, during a controversy over "terrorist" acts in Tientsin and over the question of silver reserves deposited by the Chinese government in banks in the British and French concessions.

Reliable sources said the blockade was not especially included in the agreement, but was a matter under army jurisdiction. (In Tientsin, Lieut.-Gen. Marsahru Homma, commander of the Japanese garrison, said the lifting of the barriers was a trial measure, and the Japanese reserved the right to re-impose their restrictions should they believe it necessary.)

Summarizes Terms

The foreign office in a communiqué summarized terms of the settlement of the controversy which led to the blockade as follows:

"Policing-cooperative suppression of all terrorist activities," including exchange of information and the presence of Japanese when British or French concessions police take action against persons in whose "criminal activities" the Japanese are interested. It was said the Japanese would be only "observers" for the agreement does not provide for direct Japanese action within the concessions.

Charges Against 3 Persons in Fatal Crash Dismissed

Grand Jury Recommends Mrs. Pierpoint, Wilbur Lose Licenses; Mishap Occurred May 21

Dismissing criminal charges against the operators of all three cars involved in the fatal crash on the Bearsville flats May 21 when 15-year-old James Wellington of Woodstock was killed, the grand jury Wednesday recommended that the license of Mrs. Dorothy Pierpoint of Woodstock, driver of the car in which Wellington was riding, be permanently revoked.

The grand jury also recommended Mrs. Pierpoint be prosecuted in justice's court for violation of Section 81, Subdivision 15 of the Vehicle and Traffic Law, a provision relating to improper loading of a vehicle. The grand jury also recommended that the license of Darwin Floyd Wilbur of Kingston be revoked permanently.

Cardenas Approves Defense Plan For Mexico; U.S. to Lend Money, Men

Mexico City, June 20 (AP)—A high source declared today President Lazaro Cardenas had approved a program which would more than quadruple Mexico's armed forces with the aid of the United States.

This source asserted that within a few weeks a credit of more than $10,000,000 from the United States would be made available to the Mexican government to carry out this expansion under 60 technical experts from the United States army and navy.

Additional millions would be allocated later by the Mexican finance ministry, it was reported. The United States government was said to be determined that Mexico should not be used as an avenue of invasion by an aggressor power, and it was understood the American credits would be made available on generous terms.

This defense program was reported to include:

Increase of the standing army to more than 300,000. The Mexican army now counts 112,000

6 Civilians Are Killed By Raiders

Germans Change Plan of Attack and Hit at Industrial Areas; Little Damage

Parliament Meets

Secret Session Is Held on Home Defense Subject

London, June 20 (AP)—At least six civilians were killed and "some 60" injured, the government announced today, as German warplanes bombed widely-scattered parts of England, Scotland and Wales during the night in the most widespread air attack yet directed against the British Isles.

Authoritative sources said today that considerably more than 100 German planes took part in the raids, the most extensive of the war.

Large numbers of bombs were dropped in various parts of the coastal country, from the northeast coast to South Wales.

The royal air force shot down three of the bombers. Downing of another was credited to anti-aircraft fire.

Several other invaders were badly damaged by fighter planes and anti-aircraft guns.

The Nazis appeared to have changed their lines of attack, aiming more at the industrial areas than on the night before, authoritative sources said, adding that the damage caused to factory buildings was not of great importance.

Damage Slight

Considering the much greater number of bombs dropped, compared with the previous night, the damage was slight.

The casualties were announced this morning after the first check by the air ministry and the ministry of home security. Damage in three towns was mentioned.

This attack followed by just one day raids which, although less extensive, took a toll of 12 killed and 30 injured.

The attacks began shortly before midnight (6 p. m., E. S. T.) and lasted until just before dawn. At some single points, the alarm lasted five hours. They ranged from the south coast up the east coast to Scotland, across to northwest England, and then southward on the west coast of Wales.

As was the case yesterday, while the Germans were raiding the British Isles, British bombers

Schoonmaker Loses Petition to Void Ellenville Voting

The contest resulting from the Ellenville village election for the office of police justice held on March 19 was determined today when Justice William H. Murray handed down a decision dismissing the petition of Melvin D. Schoonmaker to declare the election null and void.

At that election Herman Cohen, the regular Republican candidate for the office of police justice, was declared elected by the Board of Elections and subsequently took his oath of office and has since been serving as police justice.

The proceeding was instituted by Melvin D. Schoonmaker, who is justice of the peace of the town of Wawarsing and was a candidate running independently for the office of police justice. The election was one of the most spirited ever held in the village.

Herman Cohen received the nomination at the regular Republican village caucus. In the hotly contested Democratic caucus, Philip Slutsky, also a justice of the peace of the town of Wawarsing, received the regular Democratic nomination.

Later, Benjamin Lonstein, attorney of that village and the petitioner, Melvin D. Schoonmaker, were then added to the ballot as independent candidates.

Fighting to Stop Friday, Saturday, Italians Report

German Radio, However, Declares French Government Is Not Ready to Accept Terms; French Heads May Rule From African Area

(By The Associated Press)

Hostilities between France and the Axis armies are expected to cease Friday—or Saturday at the latest—the official Italian news agency reported today, asserting that French plenipotentiaries have started back to Bordeaux with the terms dictated by Hitler and Mussolini.

The place of meeting between the French envoys, who arrived in a snow-white plane "somewhere" in German-occupied northern France, was not given.

Fifty thousand French Poilus from the eastern Maginot Line surrendered their arms this morning to Swiss soldiers and poured across the Swiss frontier.

Waves of German planes, attacking from midnight to dawn, rained new death and destruction on England in the opening phase of the "Battle for Britain."

The German radio, in a cryptic report, declared that "members of the French government are not at all agreed on the question of laying down arms"—lending credence to unconfirmed reports that France has learned the gist of the axis terms, found them too harsh for the nation's honor, and resolved to fight on.

These reports said President Lebrun and members of his government were ready to flee to Algiers, North Africa, to carry on the war from there, even if German troops capture all France.

The French admitted Nazi troops have occupied Lyon, rich industrial city, 200 miles south of Paris, but dispatches from Geneva simultaneously gave the first hint that the German mechanized machine has begun to wear out and falter.

Refugees Reach Geneva

Refugees reaching Geneva from the battle zone told of seeing quantities of abandoned German tanks, armored cars and motorcycles along the main highways.

Nazi motorcycle troops were also reported scouring the countryside in search of needed gasoline supplies.

Nevertheless, under dwindling French resistance, Hitler's armies swept further down into France, the high command announced.

Brest, French Atlantic port below Cherbourg, where the American expeditionary force landed tens of thousands of men in 1917-18, fell to the Nazi columns, the official communiqué said.

Other German troops racing down toward Bordeaux crossed the lower Loire river—France's intended new line of defense if the fight goes on—between Nantes and Tours.

While over 100 German warplanes bombed England, others raided the refugee-swollen temporary capital of Bordeaux four times during the night, killing or wounding 60 persons.

Six civilians were killed and 60 injured in the widespread bombing over England.

This was the second successive night of renewed German air attacks on the British Isles. Twelve persons were reported killed and 30 injured the night before.

Bordeaux Is Bombed

While royal air force planes struck back in assaults on objectives in Germany and behind Nazi lines in France, German bombers also roared over Bordeaux, temporary French capital, where Premier Henri Philippe Petain's government awaited word of how and when it would receive terms on which Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini would grant an armistice.

Officially, the status of France's bid for "a soldier's peace" was that the French submitted names of plenipotentiaries—their identity was not disclosed—to receive the Axis peace terms, and that Germany would set the time and place of a meeting.

There were seemingly conflicting accounts of French activity. Masses of French planes were reported in flight to North Africa. Some of them were forced down at Spanish ports and islands before reaching their destination.

Reports reaching Switzerland, however, stated French planes and troops from North Africa had

Newburgh Man Is Arrested Here; Awaits Grand Jury

Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, Mrs. James E. Davis of 24 West Chester street was awakened by hearing some one attempting to enter the house by a kitchen window. She awoke her husband who ran to a window and asked who was there.

The intruder as he heard Mr. Davis call ran off the kitchen porch across the backyard and into the hedge into the adjoining yard and disappeared. The police department was immediately notified and furnished with a description of the man, and the alarm was sent out over the police radio.

Shortly afterward Officer Peter Camp picked up Francis T. Taylor, 19, of 69 Liberty street, Newburgh, who answered the description of the man sought. At police headquarters Taylor was questioned closely and, according to the police confessed.

Taylor was arraigned later in the morning before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court on a charge of attempted burglary. He waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury.

In reply to questions by Judge Cahill the youth said he had made the statement which was attached to the information lodged against him.

According to the information, the youth said he arrived in Kingston about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening and spent the night loitering around central Broadway.

Shortly after 2 a. m. he walked down to West Chester street and went around to the rear of the house where, according to the statement, he attempted to open the cellar door, and then tried to gain entrance to the house by one of the kitchen windows.

According to the statement he intended to break into the house to obtain money with which he could rent a room in which to sleep. Some one in the house shouted and he ran away, an aid in the weeds in a vacant lot on Broadway, and then later made his way down Broadway to McEntee street, where he was picked up.

50,000 French Go Into Switzerland

Goumois, France (On the French-Swiss Frontier) June 20 (AP)—The French army of the eastern Maginot line, at least 50,000 strong, surrendered its arms this morning to Swiss soldiers and poured into Switzerland.

Two generals and a large number of officers were among those surrendering.

The army attempted unsuccessfully last night to blast a way through the German forces holding the central Jura gate in order to reach the French army of the south. The failure left no alternative but to enter Switzerland.

The battle was fought in the Maiche plain within the elbow of the Doubs river, which flows north along the Swiss frontier and then bends west and southwest through the deep Jura gorges.

Soldiers Seek Tattoos Marks for Identifications

Tattoo artists in Canada are coming into their own as a result of the war.

According to Montreal's famous tattoo artist, Professor Paul, business is booming as never before since the days of 1914 with the army, navy and air force leading the procession through those narrow and gaudily decorated front doors. They want tattoo marks as identifications.

"Trouble now is," he said, "that there ain't the appreciation of art there used to be. I remember when a man could put in a couple of days doing a picture on a sailor's chest that was something to be proud of, but now it's just initials and numbers. Military numbers, girls' initials. I'm telling yah, I'm gettin' writer's cramp."

"Tain't only the men that's getting them," he went on. "The women too are coming in here to get their boy friends' initials on their arms and legs."

"Of course," he added, "this idea isn't so good. Suppose a girl wants to change boy friends. Zingo! there's trouble. I've blotted out more initials by changing them into roses in the past six months than I've done in the last 25 years. But then, I guess a girl's got a right to change her mind. Got one now who's making her mind up to become a tattooed lady. Trouble with this is that a man gets about half through with them and they change their minds again, and tell me, what good's a half tattooed woman?"

Senator Gibson Dies at Capital

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Senator Ernest Willard Gibson of Vermont died today at the age of 67. A lawyer, he had served in Congress for 16 years.

He had been ill of a heart ailment for more than a week. On June 12 he had been taken to a hospital here.

Senator Gibson had served all his years in Congress as a Republican although, as he liked to relate to friends, he once was "read out of the party" in Vermont. The reason for that action, he said, was his vote to override President Coolidge's veto of the soldier's bonus bill.

Gibson entered Congress first in 1924 as a member of the House. In 1933 he went to the Senate. He was a member of the Naval committee, one of the key legislative groups at work on national defense legislation.

(By The Associated Press)

Bordeaux, France, June 20—Old Marshal Henri Philippe Petain France's premier of defeat, sadly told his people today they had lost the fight with Germany because they had "fewer friends" than in 1914-18—"fewer young men, less arms, too few allies."

But he promised, in a radio broadcast: "We will learn our lesson from the lost battle." He blamed defeat on the lush years since the World War victory when "our sense of enjoyment predominated over our sense of sacrifice."

Petain disclosed that at the beginning of the "battle of France" the nation had but 2,780,000 troops, or 500,000 less than after three years of bloody fighting in the World War.

In contrast with 85 British divisions in May of 1918, he added, there were but ten in May of 1940. Then he compared the 58 Italian World War divisions on the side of France and the 42 from the United States with the present: Italy an enemy, America a neutral.

Inferior Planes
French planes in the battle of France were inferior to the enemy one to six, he declared.

The hero of Verdun concluded: "I was with you in your days of glory, and I am and will remain with you in your days of sadness."

He explained why he had asked for peace.

"I took this decision," the old marshal of the World War declared in a radio broadcast to the nation, "because the military situation failed (to justify) our hopes based on the line of the Somme and the Aisne."

General (Maxime) Weygand regrouped our armies. His name alone was a promise of victory."

However, the line gave way and enemy pressure forced our troops to retreat.

"On June 13 I asked for an armistice."

500,000 Less Troops

Contrasting the last war with this struggle, Petain said that at the beginning of the present battle France had 500,000 less troops than the 3,280,000 she had after three years of bloody fighting in the World War.

"In May, 1918," he went on, "we had 85 British divisions; in May, 1940, we had ten."

"In 1918 we had 58 Italian divisions and 42 American divisions with us."

Here the old marshal paused, and then pointed out that Italy was fighting on the side of Germany and that America was neutral.

"The inferiority of our material," he said, "was even greater than that of our manpower. French aviation had been fighting its battle one against six."

Every people, he added sadly, must know days of success and days of defeat. Then he went on: "Today France is a witness to sad days. I was with you in your days of glory. I am and will remain with you in your days of sadness."

The French, he said, "do not deny defeat when it stares them in the face. All peoples have known successes and reverses. It is by their reaction that they show themselves weak or great. We will learn our lesson from the lost battle."

"Since our victory (in the World War) a sense of enjoyment has predominated over the sense of sacrifice. We have sought more than we have given. We have not exerted enough effort. Today we are in distress."

British Will Get French Contracts For Munitions

emphasized, is still in the discussion stage. The subject arose indirectly in testimony given a congressional committee by Captain P. A. Feringa, assistant chief of the rivers and harbors section of the army engineers. He said the navy wanted two special type dredges for operation with the fleet.

Essential to Fleet

"These dredges," he explained, "are essential to the fleet in case they have operations in South America, where some harbors are obstructed by sand bars."

In the sphere of strictly national defense, it was uncertain whether the new $4,000,000,000 fleet expansion bill would get immediate House consideration. The rules committee gave it right of way to the floor, with debate limited to two hours; but later Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas said it might not come up for some time.

Two naval matters which evoked some congressional criticism were the release of 20 torpedo boats to Britain, and the alleged intention to "guarantee" a 10 per cent profit to shipbuilders on $1,000,000,000 of pending warship construction contracts.

Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the Senate naval committee called release of the torpedo boats a "grievous wrong," and said "if war should come in the next few months, no one can estimate the consequence that may follow as a result of the disposal of these vessels."

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) advocated an inquiry to establish "how much other war material the army and navy have disposed of without knowledge or consent of Congress."

Walsh also criticized the navy on the profit "guarantee" which he said Rear Admiral S. M. Robinson, chief of the engineering bureau, had acknowledged during a closed committee hearing.

Six Civilians Die In Bombing Raid

were at work in Germany. The air ministry announced today royal air force bombers had attacked the Ruhr, Rhineland and west Germany, and also German aircraft grounded at Amiens and Rouen, in German-occupied France.

Secret Session

The raids provided a realistic prelude to a secret session of Parliament this afternoon on the subject of home defense. Prime Minister Winston Churchill and War Minister Anthony Eden were expected to speak.

The public was ordered excluded from the House of Commons after the question hour to make way for the opening of the secret session about 3:45 p. m. (9:45 a. m., E. S. T.) The House of Lords set its opening for 45 minutes earlier.

Parliamentary circles thought David Lloyd George, white-haired Welshman who was prime minister during the World War, would play an important role in the debate, which it was assumed would go into the general war situation and the strategic position resulting from France's request for an armistice.

The Commons session was likely to last seven hours. A demand for continuation of the secret session tomorrow was possible.

Last night, 50 members of Parliament, representing all parties, drafted for presentation to the session a program which would enroll the entire population for defense and establish a special ministry to combat fifth column activities.

By dropping bombs in northwest England and Wales, the Germans gave many of the defending forces their first taste of action in the war. A furious resistance was stirred everywhere. Anti-aircraft fire was loud and long, and little British fighter planes poured streams of machine-gun bullets at the invaders.

Details Meager

Details of casualties and damage done were meager beyond disclosure of the official communiqué. It was known a man and a woman were killed when a bomb struck a house in a small town. The house was wrecked.

In a town in northwest England, it was stated high explosive bombs and "a considerable number" of incendiary bombs were dropped. One high explosive bomb killed two women and demolished three houses.

One person was reported to have died of shock in a south coast town. Most the casualties were in northeast England, where witnesses said there were three separate raids during the night.

The bombs which fell in the southern part of Wales, now a reception area for evacuees from London, were the first of the war there. Anti-aircraft guns fired, and fighter planes went up. The bombs fell in the sea, in the open country and on buildings. The raid lasted 80 minutes.

Besides the three German bombers reported shot down, a fourth was declared officially to have been disabled and unlikely to have reached home.

The first machine disabled was a Heinkel "111" shortly before midnight south of the river Tees.

A quarter of an hour later, a pilot of another squadron made a "head attack" on a bomber picked up by searchlights near the Humber estuary. The searchlight crew reported seeing the bomber crash.

An hour later, the pilot of a third fighter squadron shot down a Heinkel in flames near Grimsby. At almost the same time, it was stated, his squadron leader was destroying another Heinkel further south.

An official bulletin amplifying the first communiqué said: "Three German bombers were shot down by spitfire pilots of the royal air force fighter command during a series of raids over the English and Scottish coasts last night. A fourth was disabled and is unlikely to have reached home."

"The night's successes were shared by three fighter squadrons, each of which had action experience over France."

"The first came shortly before midnight, when a Heinkel 111 was disabled near the mouth of the Tees. A spitfire pilot told on his return how he had spotted the Heinkel."

"A quarter of an hour later a pilot from another squadron made a head-on attack on an enemy bomber which was picked up by searchlights over the Humber. The searchlight crew saw the bomber crash."

"Another hour (later) and the pilot from the third squadron shot a Heinkel down in flames near Grimsby, while almost at the same time his squadron leader was destroying another Heinkel further south."

"Earlier in the evening a hurricane pilot on his way back from patrol over France encountered a formation of three Heinkel 111's near Amiens. He shot one down."

Schoonmaker Loses Petition to Void Ellenville Voting

the form of a square and this, it was said, was the cause of considerable misunderstanding resulting in the voiding of a number of ballots which if counted, would have brought about the election of the Independent Democratic candidate, Schoonmaker.

It was asserted by the successful candidate, Herman Cohen, that the election was, in all respects, proper and regular and in substantial compliance with the provisions of the Election Law and that any non-compliance was not deliberate and intentional but in part, at least, was caused by the nature of the emblem selected by Schoonmaker.

There was indication as a result of the election and the caucuses leading up to the nomination party. The Democratic caucus was witnessed by a contest, and the head of the village Free School organization, Tuthill McDowell, the former Democratic supervisor of the town of Wawarsing, later submitted an affidavit in support of the petitioner, Melvin D. Schoonmaker, to declare the election void even though he was not the regular Democratic candidate.

Arthur B. Ewig, of Cashin & Ewig, of Kingston, represented Herman Cohen, the elected candidate. The Village Board of Elections was represented by Clarence A. Hoorbeck, of Ellenville, and Flanagan & Kaercher, of Kingston represented Melvin D. Schoonmaker, the unsuccessful candidate.

FIRE ALARM

With France, a world empire inferior only to Britain, defeated and doomed to dissolution, will Americans who are still asleep wake up to what is going on in the world?
France is now entirely in Hitler's power. He can strip her of all her colonies throughout the world, and probably will. He can also levy upon her a huge "war indemnity" to make her pay the cost of her own conquest, as Bismarck did 70 years ago. He can do as he pleases with her industries, her material resources, her lands, her people. He can, and presumably will, demand her navy and the remnants of her air force and merchant marine. Anything he may leave to France in the form of territory or economic power or human freedom will be left only as a generous gesture.

What humiliation, poverty and internal terror or revolution this may bring upon a free, civilized and gracious people, whose culture has been a light to the world, can only be imagined. The barbaric Nazi hand is heavy.

Switzerland, free for so many centuries, can now be absorbed by the Nazis at their leisure. The Balkans will eat out of Hitler's hand. Nothing succeeds like success. There is only one democracy now left in Europe—Britain, head and front of the greatest empire ever assembled in history.

Britain and her dominions and dependencies throughout the world say they will still carry on, and fight Nazi domination alone if necessary. It is a brave stand, and it will be a long, hard war at best.

America, the residuary legatee of democracy if Britain falls, stands by, worried and a little shaken, but determined to carry on.

THAT FRENCH FLEET

America's chief concern in the French debacle is that the dictators shall not get the French fleet. This is crucial. If the fleet cannot go to Britain or come to us, it should be sunk.

The reason is obvious. With the French fleet added to their own, Hitler and Mussolini would have a bigger and stronger navy than Britain has. They could control the Mediterranean and might destroy the British fleet. Such a loss of sea power would lay Britain wide open to invasion.

Then, with Hitler commanding a stronger navy than ours, where would we be? We would have to leave either our east or west coast unprotected, not daring to split our navy between them. That would leave either the Nazi and Fascists or the Japanese free to assault our hemisphere on one side, at least. And all our American republics would be endangered.

These facts are recognized in Washington and London. Free people everywhere will breathe more freely if they hear that the French fleet has joined the English fleet.

WORLD BALANCE

"It is gradually dawning on Japan," writes Columnist Jay Franklin, "that Hitler's success constitutes a deadly threat to Japan's projected 'new order' in Asia. Hitherto, Japan has looked forward to the gradual weakening of European control in India, Indo-China, the East Indies and the South Seas, and regarded herself as a natural heir to the European colonial empire in that part of the world. But if Hitler becomes heir to them, it will bring Japan face to face with an aggressive, ruthless, expansive power which will not hesitate to break any pledges, treaties or understandings. Hence the Japanese willingness to consider a deal with the United States."

So in the present welter of war and diplomacy we begin to get some first glimmerings of what may turn out to be a new balance in the world. In the absence of a world government, there has to be a "balance of power" to keep our civilization going ahead on an even keel. Hitler has temporarily destroyed the rough balance generally maintained in Europe, and imposed on the rest of the world, since Napoleon was swept out.

It would be interesting if our country and Japan, which have not been getting along very well lately, should prove to be the joint means of restoring the balance. It is hard to guess which side Russia would choose.

FERRYING TROOPS

We may yet become official participants in this war. But it is coming to be recognized that such belligerency as we undertook in the last war is unlikely to occur this time because it is practically impossible.

Suppose we did train troops by the millions and start shipping them to the European battle front. Even if they got safely across, where would they land? Experts are pointing out that Hitler's aerial navy would be raking every shore and harbor as it recently raked Dunkirk. The troops that England has been sending to France lately find it harder and harder to get ashore and join the French forces.

There is some comfort in the reflection that, by the same reasoning, European or Asiatic troops might find it equally impractical to bring an army to America. It would be somewhat easier, no doubt, than our landing in Europe, because we have so vast a shore line to guard; but it would still be true that the old troop-ship ferry days are over.

SMOKE RATIONS

Girls must stop smoking in college, according to a new Nazi rule, because smoking "has been scientifically demonstrated to be bad for women." But that is only part of the picture.

The other part is that "every cigarette that female students do not smoke now saves one for the soldiers at the front."

This latter consideration, at least, is reasonable. If the transient consolations of tobacco are needed anywhere, they are surely needed by the fighting men in this most exhausting and terrible of all wars.

Money itself grows temperamental, going up and down with the news.

CASES OF DIZZINESS

Among your friends and acquaintances you likely have a number who are sensitive or allergic to various foods. They will tell you that a certain food brings on an attack of hives or an upset stomach or an attack of asthma, or a head cold. The eating of foods to which one is sensitive is now believed to be the cause of attacks of dizziness that were formerly blamed on the liver. Just as foods inflame the lining of nose, throat, and bronchial tubes, the lining of the stomach, and the surface of the skin, so can they cause an inflammation of the inner ear, thickening the lining, upsetting the balancing canals and so causing dizziness. Other substances such as house dust and pollen can cause swelling of tissues of the inner ear.

Dr. L. H. Crip, Pittsburgh, in Pennsylvania Medical Journal, Harrisburg, states that the number of cases of dizziness due to allergy is greater than suspected. That allergy causes swelling and puffiness of the inner ear, just as it causes swelling and puffiness of the skin, lining of nose and other parts, is logical or reasonable particularly when all the other conditions found in allergy are present in these cases, such as family history of allergy and other allergic symptoms (asthma, hay fever, eczema, and the like) and the tests for allergy are positive.

Dizziness (vertigo) due to allergy may be the only symptom present or there may be other symptoms such as deafness, ringing in the ears (one or both sides), and stomach upsets. Hearing returns between attacks. During the attack the patient may break out in a cold sweat and nausea and vomiting may be present.

Dr. Crip points out that similar symptoms—loss of hearing, ringing in ears, dizziness, headache—may be due to tumors, infections, poisoning, and bleeding into inner ear, so that all these conditions should be considered and searched for, before blaming the symptoms on allergy. If none of these conditions is present, it is reasonable to believe that allergy may be the cause.

The usual tests for allergy should then be made which may take some time, and may mean a change in the furniture or surroundings of the individual or the avoidance of certain foods from the diet. It may be possible to make the patient less sensitive or allergic to foods or other substances by getting him used to small amounts of these substances, as is done in hay fever, asthma, hives, and eczema.

Allergy

Allergy or sensitivity to various foods and other substances may result in many symptoms such as hay fever, eczema, hives, asthma, sniffly nose, running eyes, and others. Send for this handy booklet today entitled "Allergy" (No. 106) enclosing Ten Cents The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. ticket—admitting openly that they have no interest in opposing Roosevelt, even if it's a third term that he's running for. This isn't quite universal but almost so, and even those who most vigorously fought the third-term idea have either become silent or only halfheartedly opposed in the face of the international crisis and the overwhelming Democratic confidence in the President.

Bushy-browed, horn-rimmed Garner still won't say a thing one way or another. But even he, through his friends and backers, is leading a political ace in the hope that President Roosevelt will forgive all and won't trump it.

The ace, in this case, is the theory that the administration should be continued status quo. If we shouldn't change lead horses in the middle of the stream, then we shouldn't change wheel-horses either. If we shouldn't change Presidents, then why change vice-presidents?

The political wisecracks, however, are shaking their heads. There's too much talk of McNutt, Hull, William O. Douglas (for a man to step down from the Supreme Court to be vice president would be another precedent-shatterer), Attorney-General Jackson, Stark (of Missouri), and half a dozen others. With a few exceptions, these are all younger men, more closely allied with Roosevelt policies, or more important geographically. The political wise-

Labor Is Playing Its Usual Game of Trying to Force Top Candidates to Commit Themselves

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 20.—Labor has begun to play its usual game at the national conventions—an effort to win concessions on party planks but in reality an attempt to force the top candidates to commit themselves to particular benefits for labor.

The strange speech by John L. Lewis exonerating Herbert Hoover from blame for the depression might, on the surface, seem a leaning by the CIO leader to the former President. For it may be asked, what other purpose would there be now in making the speech except to help the Hoover boom at the convention? There is no more in common between Hoover and Lewis than between Roosevelt and Hoover.

But, for political reasons, the Lewis speech at the moment has certain values. It helps to spread the impression that Hoover will get CIO help if elected—something few who are experienced in political analysis will concede.

As for the statement made by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that he was bound to admit that Wendell Willkie had carried on satisfactory labor relations in his utility company, this, too, comes at a time when the purpose is to have a political effect. It gives a hint that maybe the A. F. of L. will not feel justified in rejecting the Willkie candidacy if he wins the nomination.

The A. F. of L. and CIO are jockeying for position in politics. The chances are that despite what John Lewis has said publicly, he and his followers will be found supporting President Roosevelt for a third term. Certainly the CIO has gotten out of the Roosevelt regime about all that it really expected, though not, perhaps, all it wanted. To have control of the labor board under the Wagner Act is an important prize and the CIO has dominated the labor board for the last five years.

Naturally the A. F. of L. would like to have its friends on the labor board and the next President will have the appointment of a new board. The A. F. of L. has never taken a position in favor of making labor a single political party but has always reserved the right to favor one or the other of the parties as the platforms and the candidates were proclaimed and their attitudes toward labor have become known.

Frances Colville has taken a position in the office of the Trowbridge farms at Kyserike for the summer.

The Rev. and Mrs. Bernard Grossman, of Grahamsville spent Sunday with the Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Grossman.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Terwilliger and son, Claude, Jr., spent Sunday out of town.

ST. REMY

St. Remy, June 19.—Sunday services: Sunday school 10 a. m., church services 11 o'clock, the Rev. W. K. Haysom, will bring the message.

Giving out Stern Facts

Testifying recently before the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, said that at present the navy has 1,367 planes and 734 more under construction. He added, however, that by June 1, 1941, age and crash losses would reduce the number to less than 2,000. When the suggestion was made by one of the members of the committee that this information be suppressed, Senators Johnson of California and Tydings of Maryland instantly objected. They demanded publication of the facts.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—Capital politicians are speculating on the possibility that the career in national politics of 71-year-old (come November 22) John Nance Garner is over.

If so, they explain, the vice president will be a victim of the war in Europe.

Here's the way they reason: Even if a third-term race by President Roosevelt isn't a certainty, the Democratic choice will be some one designated by the President.

Although "Cactus Jack" strung along with the New Deal in its infancy, he hasn't been too kind to it in its latter years. By open declaration against the third term he has eliminated himself as a possible running mate on a New Deal slate, be it President Roosevelt or someone else.

Consequently, whatever numbers the dice turn up, Garner is out of the political money for the time being.

Maybe this is so, maybe it isn't. I'm only passing along what politicians here are saying.

Angling for Second Place

In the realm of Democratic politics, one thing is certain: the men who were in the field for the presidency a few weeks ago are now angling for second place on the

The gross value of commodities produced on Canadian farms in 1939 is estimated at $1,170,943,000, as compared with $1,062,645,000, the revised estimate for 1938.

July's usually clear weather is no safety panacea to motorists. Four out of five accidents occur when the weather is clear and the pavement dry.

Gaston Bell Is Writing Plays

GASTON BELL

By MARGUERITE HURTER

Woodstock, June 19—Last night we went to see "Lillian Russell" with Gaston Bell and a party at the Broadway Theatre, Kingston. Gaston who was once leading man for Lillian Russell said that he thought the picture was a very good representation of the golden age when Diamond Jim Brady tossed diamonds and rubies over the footlights in baskets of roses. In the screen adaptation, necessarily, certain scenes were exaggerated—notably the early romance with Alexander Moore. Alexander Moore presented to Gaston a photograph of Lillian taken when she was about 60. It was autographed, after Lillian's death, "To Gaston Bell, in memory of a woman the whole country loved."

With a tear in his eye, Gaston left the theatre and spoke of the impressive funeral services for the great Russell in the Hippodrome Theatre, New York. Lillian was interred in Pittsburgh with solemn rites, but the whole world of the theatre congregated in the Hippodrome to pay tribute before a painting of Lillian Russell, banked with flowers, and guarded by shining marines. The marines were the pride of Lillian's life! Gaston told of how sudden and shocking her death was: Lillian Russell returning from Europe on a government mission—something concerning immigration—was caught in a rough sea, and walking on deck one day was lurching against the rail. She suffered some sort of strain or abrasion.

"Lillian was never the sort to call a doctor, or to whine or fret if she did not feel well. So she went on to Washington and delivered her report. Returning to New York she was suffering from inflammation and infection. If she had had a doctor at once, her life might have been saved. But it was like Lillian to forget herself in favor of public service. Thus, Gaston lauded the great Lillian Russell and repeated that she was the sweetest woman that ever lived.

Gaston was a matinee idol 50 years ago, playing with Marie Tempest, Ellen Terry, Henry Irving, and other immortals of the theatre.

"Did you ever carry a spear?" we teased Gaston.

"Certainly. That was the way to get on the stage in those days. I carried a spear in 'Shylock' and was it heavy!"

Nowadays around Woodstock, Gaston does not carry a spear, but he carries a wealth of memories of the gay nineties. We like Gaston, and in his red plaid cap and coat he is at this moment a striking and interesting figure wherever he appears. He devotes his time now to writing plays, and we are told he is at work on a good one. Good luck, Gaston, and thanks for a pleasant evening at the movies.

At The Knife and Fork this morning we met Peggy Paige who tells us her book of poems will be out soon. Pam Ravenal has made a fine sketch of Peggy.

Clara Chichester asked us to call on Madge Scott, who has come up to Woodstock to do some work in summer theatres.

Irene Purcell is at the Woodstock Playhouse rehearsing with the Elwyn troupe for "Something Gay." The theatre opens on June 27. We are still trying to get that line drawing of Bob Elwyn, but all the artists miss him coming and going. He is so busy rehearsing up at the Villetta in Brydcliffe.

Met Betty Barnes, who does landscape gardening. Betty did the Norbert Heermann garden and it is an idyll of inspiration. There was some argument between Betty Barnes and Clemmy Randolph about whether fuschias or petunias were the preferred purple. Clemmy thinks fuschias are finer. Betty Barnes has also done some landscaping at the Alfred De Laigue place up here. We plan to get a story on gardens from Betty, and meantime, we think the roses on our terrace are something to brag about.

Louise Hellstrom has been down to pick a flock of peonies and roses. She had a gladiola in her hair, and none on earth can do more to make flowers behave than Louise. Her old place up Wittenberg way was a dream spot. Understand it is for sale or rent through Fanny Loomis. Louise has centered all her activities at her new inn. We were to look the place over, and it is gay as a fire-cracker, with everything painted red. Louise can do things with interior decorating.

and we think she will have one of the most bizarre in Woodstock. This morning we met Clarkson Reynolds, the ice man. Reynolds is a character well loved in Woodstock, and we asked him whether he knew that we once made up a song about him. It went something like this:

"Oh, the ice man!
He's a nice man...
He'll freeze you."

It went on in the same silly strain, and Bertie Shevlin sang it with a few special yodels one day when we were with J. P. McEvoy. Mr. McEvoy was doing a show for Mr. Ziegfeld with W. C. Fields that season. One morning he telephoned us in excitement and asked us to sing the ice man song over the telephone. We thought it was a gag, but began to yodel. Imagine our surprise when he created the role of the ice man for W. C. Fields! Later Mr. Fields did the ice man stuff in a moving picture, Mr. McEvoy scripted in Hollywood. About that time we remembered that we never collected a percentage. The moral? Never yodel.

Once Mr. McEvoy kidded us about the whole thing and wrote an article "Sell it, don't tell it." He said our fault was that we bubbled on and never got anything on the dotted line. But how could you get an ice man on a dotted line? He has the genius of a humorist, and playwright amplified to the last meridian, but best of all, he knows how to work like a steam engine. We are doing a short story about "Plea for Monogamy" which Elizabeth Alexander thinks is a good idea. We promise to get the script over for her critical eye soon, but today it is so warm up in Woodstock, we do not feel like working. Like all the rest of the artists, we just sit here and talk about each other.

Vacationists Now More Plentiful in Ellenville Region

Ellenville, June 20—Ellenville is welcoming many Summer visitors who are arriving each day at well-known resorts in this area.

Abbreviated sports costumes are blossoming in the village as vacation guests seek clothes relief from a blistering sun.

Advance guards of Summer camps are readying cabins for the influx of annual summer throngs. Many natives, as well as visitors, are enjoying their "first swim of the season" in favored mountain streams nearby.

Small groups of hikers may be seen here and there along roads leading to Ellenville.

Fishing, boating, horseback riding and golf are all getting their share of attention from respective enthusiasts. Although unfavorable Spring weather dampened hopes for early boom business among merchants and resorts proprietors, sudden soaring of the mercury has now raised business prospects.

New Ventilator Solves Fresh Air-Draft Problem

For the family that divides itself in winter into the advocates of fresh air and the enemies of drafts, peace is now possible with the perfection of a new ventilator, which has recently appeared on the market.

Every winter, particularly in sleeping chambers, a great many people feel that they are forced to choose between suffocating or resisting a freezing gale. The need of fresh air is recognized, and the danger of drafts is equally well established; the problem has been in selecting a lesser evil.

This new ventilator provides a solution by allowing air to enter the room quietly and effectively without creating enough movement of air to disturb the most sensitive person.

Simple in construction, the ventilator consists of two vented plates which overlap, but do not touch and which have between them a copper screen. The edges of each plate are turned in such a way that they are opposite the opposing plate, so that the air is made to turn two corners by the baffle plates of the ventilator.

In this way, the force of the wind on the outside is checked so that the movement of air on the inside does not extend any more than four or five inches from the ventilator. While the baffle plates do not hinder fresh air from entering freely through the ventilator, they do prevent rain, snow and a large percentage of dust from passing through. Also, the installation of this ventilator will not interfere with the easy opening and closing of the window, because it goes on the outside, with a rubber composition flap which seals the space between the window frame and the ventilator.

They are easily installed without the services of an expert. Adjustable brackets at each end of the unit allow for variations in the width of windows and require but two screws each. The ventilator slips down between the brackets and can be inserted or removed effortlessly.

Woman, 100, Owes Life To Gift of Doughnuts

BOSTON.—If the mother of Charlotte Adams had not been a good doughnut maker, the former Boston school teacher might not have lived to celebrate her 100th birthday as the city's oldest pensioner.

At her anniversary, Miss Adams told how 98 years ago hostile Indians entered their log cabin home in Iowa City and snatched her from a cradle. Miss Adams says her mother then passed around a plate of hot doughnuts to the Indians and then took the baby back from a surprised brave.

Screwball Defense Plans Are Poured Into Patent Office

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Amid the country's plans for national defense, inventors are flooding the patent office with ideas ranging from bear traps for enemy tanks to a proposal for enlisting whales in a war against submarines.

Every week brings a new batch of ideas which the patent office calls impractical and which it rejects.

A tank trap suggestion came from a man who said he had spent years trapping bears and big game and that a huge steel trap would work just as well on a tank as on a grizzly.

The whale plans came from a man who said that whales could be captured, equipped with submarine-fouling armor, and released to raise havoc with the enemy.

Another man said he had a machine which could be installed at strategic points and when a fifth columnist came along with a concealed map, the machine would sound an alarm.

This was called a "map detector."

Still another rejected invention called for an apparatus which its creator claimed not only would catch bombs dropped from the air, but would douse them in water.

A man who wouldn't go into detail said he had an idea for an anti-dive bomber. The general theory behind it was a machine shooting out such a strong current of air that the plane couldn't dive into it.

One inventor had a plan for important highways to be mined with gadgets which would cause nails to rise out of the pavement and puncture the tires of enemy motorcycle riders.

The cost of America's traffic during the month of July last year—including holiday trips and every day driving—was 2,740 lives.

Desmond Urges Defense Council for State Control

Albany, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—State Senator Thomas C. Desmond urged today immediate creation of a defense council to coordinate New York's resources and keep the state defense program "out of politics."

The Newburgh Republican, advocating appointment by Governor Lehman of a council similar to that created in 1917, said it could recommend to a special session of the legislature any legislation found necessary for adequate state protection.

"But we must have no red tape or politics in our program of defense," Desmond added. "The governor should call upon the wealth of ability that now exists outside our state government. State leaders of agriculture, industry and labor, now in private life, in whose hands the direction of industrial and agricultural production now properly rests, can best plant and supervise such an effort."

Pilots Good at 50
San Francisco (AP)—Flying is not necessarily a young man's trade, says Dr. Eric Liljencrantz of Stanford university. Though conceding that the speedier reaction time of youths make them more adept at the controls, Dr. Liljencrantz says that many veteran pilots approaching the age of 50 now show no signs of defects that would disqualify them for flying.

'Pokema' or Draw Poker
Tulsa, Okla. (AP)—Time after time police raided gambling places in the Negro quarter. On their next intrusion the police were met by a Negro who announced naively: "Can't arrest us, boss. We ain't playing draw poker. Just pokema." Invited to demonstrate the fine points of the new game, the Negro did so. "May be a new name but it's still draw poker to us," the officers announced. "Come along."

English Ups and Downs
Chillicothe, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Cora Bryan, elevator operator, says her politest recent passenger was a very young fellow who rode to the top and back with her. "I sure do like to ride on these cultivators," said he as he doffed his hat and strode away.

Woodstock

By MARGUERITE HURTER

Woodstock, June 20—Here we are again on the terrace, wondering what to write about—with the wind and the rain in our ears. What anyone can do about this weather, or the war, or the new car we are trying to buy is all we have to worry about.

Today our Boy Scout is taking final Regent's examinations in the eighth grade at the Woodstock school. He got 96 in history, so that will cost us a new wrist watch and maybe a bike. That goes on the average.

Principal Ralph Eighmey of Woodstock District No. 2 had a picnic for the boys and girls at his farm in Willow last Saturday. The farm is nearly a hundred years old, and the children had a dandy time. The children of the lower grades had a picnic on the school grounds.

Also taking examinations at the Woodstock school are eighth grade pupils of Daisy, Glenford, Zena, Wittenberg, Lake Hill, Bearsville, Shady and Willow.

We stopped by the school last week and talked with Miss Norton and Mrs. Quick, the latter being the art teacher to whom credit goes for such fine drawings exhibited by the pupils in all grades. We learned that it is not, by any means, the children of the artists who do the best work. Mrs. Quick believes that latent talent is in all children, and in many cases the finest drawings were the work of native children—notably the Finch boys. As in the case of Milton Wolven, the village butcher's son becoming a violinist, we prove a point in favor of environment being more impressive in the development of the young artists than heredity.

In the case of our own son who might be an artist we learn that the ambition of his life is to work in Deanie Elwyn's dog wagon. We cannot say that we blame him! Deanie's Tinker Street Trolley is a fun factory where everyone in the village hobnobs.

Golf Tournament

We suggest that the caddies of the Woodstock Country Club have a tournament. On July 11, there will be an invitation tournament for the ladies of Hudson Valley, Newburgh, Albany and Poughkeepsie. On July 20 in the afternoon Holly Cantine will entertain at the Woodstock Country Club for a number of paper mill executives and salesmen.

In the post office we notice another old, familiar face. Roy Harder.

There are so many Elwyn's in Woodstock we wonder they don't name the main street after them. Bob Elwyn yesterday at the Packard place in Kingston bought a new car. We were in the alley getting oil, but Mr. Doyle sneaked out a new convertible with red leather seats and now all we have to do is worry how we can pay for it.

Edward Ballantyne, director of the Maverick Theatre held auditions for scholarships at the Maverick Theatre School last Sunday. We are invited over to the Maverick to learn more about the school and will view the opening show "Lady Precious Stream" on July 5.

Karl E. Cousins has opened his electric appliance shop, and at night so much light blazes forth from ye Cousins' shop it looks like a cosmic ray. Woodstock last night was very bright and brilliant.

Minstrel Show

The Methodist Church had a minstrel show at Town Hall. The Rev. Lester L. Davis may be congratulated on the number of swanky automobiles lined up on the street. On the committee were Clyde Elwyn, Harold Reynolds, Robert Stoutenberg, and Bruce Herrick. The entertainment was provided by the Craftsmen Club of the Rondout Lodge 343 F. & A. M. Interlocutor for the Masonic group was Ralph Harrison of Woodstock. The show was directed by Bill Smith. End men were Bill Lapine, George Hudler, Harry Marquart, and Phil Stici. Premier end men were Carl Spiegel, and Harry Barnhart. Solists, Ralph Harrison, Bob Smith, Phil Fisher, Jr., and Bob Messenger. Also John Long and Martin Kelly—according to the program given us by Mrs. Harrison of their encore performance from Kingston.

A hit of the show was Peter Donald the Scotsman. We admit we came late. Just in time to laugh at the Scotch jokes. Especially the one about the 20 lobsters following the lady home.

Also popular on the program were Mr. and Mrs. James Wesley who were the original "Maggie and Jiggs" of funny paper fame. The Wesleys were headliners in vaudeville when George McManus sketched what is probably the most popular comic ever drawn. We used to know McManus when we worked for Mr. Hearst's New York American, and remember that he forgot to keep a radio date with us on Station WHN one day, but so long as he does not forget to draw Maggie and Jiggs we won't hold that against him.

Also at the athletic field was McNally's show to remain for the week. The children came home with a flock of new jokes. The show is under a tent and the best joke is said to be something about a kiss over the telephone. Maybe that's why we're getting the busy signal so much today. Woodstock has gone in for this idea in a big way.

Another joke: "If you want to get Roosevelt, call Kingston; if you want to get heaven, call Saint Peter; if you want to raise the devil, call Woodstock!"

Apropos, we conclude to mention that among notables in Woodstock at the Village Inn last week-end were 15 classmates of N.Y.U. of 1905, celebrating four days reunion of this doleful convention.

Reginald Werrenrath, noted concert singer, was ring-leader. Also merry-making in Woodstock last week-end the very popular "Maggie" Kenyon socially noted as Margaret Reeves Kenyon who was guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius B. Sewell up Byrdcliffe way. We remember a party at Maggie Kenyon's house in Greenwich Village years ago where we sat upon the floor with Morton Downey, Birdie Shevlin and Allen Cochrane. Any of these people can come over and sit on our floor anytime.

Cashdollar Golden Wedding
The last word goes to Sarah and Wilber Cashdollar, whose golden wedding should really have been celebrated June 19. The party was held on June 8, because that was the only time all of the relatives could get together.

We stopped in at the Homestead the night the Cashdollars celebrated, and shall never forget the beautiful twin wedding cake, baked in the form of two bells, one marked 1890, and the other 1940. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Martin McDaniel, also Mr. and Mrs. Barnet McDaniel, from Shady. (The McDaniels are brothers of Mrs. Sarah McDaniel Cashdollar). From Bearsville came her sister, Mrs. Belle Lasher. Mr. Cashdollar's sister, Alice Cashdollar was present, also Mrs. Nellie McDaniel and Mrs. Annie McDaniel from Bearsville.

Among the children were Albert Cashdollar, (Supervisor of Woodstock) Mrs. John Mundy, Mrs. Louise Bolton, Mrs. Harry Schryver, Mrs. John White, Mrs. Helen Ostrander, and Everett Cashdollar, all with their respective mates.

The picture of the golden wedding was a failure. Mrs. Cashdollar did not care for the way it turned out, and so we cannot keep our promise to publish it. She does not blame the photographer, Mr. Lapo. It was just her glasses reflecting too strong in the flash light. Sorry, folks, you missed the pretty scene of the dining room, but better luck next anniversary. And again congratulations.

Not For Sale

Berlin (AP)—Butchers are not obliged to sell their show-pieces of meats or sausages exhibited in their windows, the police have ruled. Repeated complaints by Berlin housewives that butchers refused to comply when asked to sell cuts shown in the window led to this decision.

Ma Was Busy Too
Indianapolis (AP)—It was a busy week for the John F. Gillespie family. Two daughters were graduated—Joan Frances from grade school and Theresa Jeanne from high school. Theresa, 17, and her father, 30, had birthdays. A third daughter, Marguerite Josephine, got married.

A man named Smith was running for sheriff against a man named Jones. One evening just before Smith rode up to the barnyard of an old farmer. The farmer was milking a cow and was having difficulty with a lousy calf that continually tried to "butt in." The candidate, to gain the favor of the farmer, took the calf between his legs and held it until the milking was done. He then introduced himself: "I am Mr. Smith, the Republican candidate for sheriff of this county. I suppose you know the man who's running against me?" The farmer's eyes twinkled as he slowly drawled: "Well, I reckon I do. He's in the house now, holdin' the baby."

Denies Obligation

Butte, Mont. (AP)—A manicurist accused a customer of walking out of the shop without paying for service on his nails. When police caught up with him he said he didn't think he was "morally obliged to pay." "I went to sleep in the barber's chair and she just went ahead and worked on my hands," he said.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes wash out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Torchlight Time

It Took Whiskers to Win On Post-Civil War Tickets

U. S. Grant

J. A. Garfield

R. B. Hayes

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

Washington—War service and whiskers virtually were "musts" for Republican presidential nominees in the post-Civil War period of prolonged G. O. P. supremacy.

From Grant to McKinley, inclusive, there was only one break in the parade of Union army officers as Republican standard bearers. The exception was James G. Blaine, and he lost.

And from Grant until McKinley, every Republican nominee sported a bushy beard. Vice President Chester Arthur, who stepped up when President Garfield was assassinated, had "beautiful sideburns."

In 1888, a Republican newspaper boasted that "no Democrats have yet been able to display more than a mustache."

War Heroes in Command

Republican campaigns of that era had a pronounced military-patriotic motif. War heroes presided and keynoted at conventions. Veterans with empty sleeves, denoting they had given arms "to save the Union," had honored places on the platforms.

G. O. P. stalwarts converged on Chicago in 1868 for their first post-war convention as the historic struggle of a Republican congress to oust Andrew Johnson from the presidency was coming to a close. Delegates en route to Chicago got the news by "trained lightning" (telegraph) that President Johnson had been acquitted by a one-vote margin. Republican senators who voted "not guilty" were denounced.

The selection of a candidate was a mere formality. The boom for Grant, idolized "captain of all the armies of the Union," swept the North. He had no opposition. Grant Once a Democrat

The outlook for the Democrats was hopeless. They had tried earlier to get Grant, who before the war was a Democrat, as their candidate. (The general did not cast a Republican ballot until he had been President eight years.)

The Democrats met in the new Tammany wigwam in New York. A bust of Washington looked down upon "a picturesque gathering of broad-brimmed Kentuckians, gray-coated Alabamians, long-haired Carolinians, hirsute Arkansians and boisterous Oregonians."

The convention opened on the Fourth of July with the keynote declaring: "We come to celebrate not only the independence of this nation but also the burial of Negro rule and radical tyranny." Governor Horatio Seymour of New York was nominated on the 22nd ballot as a compromise candidate. Grant won, 214 to 80.

Scandals broke out in Grant's second administration. Reform Republicans joined Democrats in attacking "carpet-bag" rule. Came 1876, centennial of American independence, and Republicans met in barn-like Cincinnati hall.

Hayes a Dark Horse

James G. Blaine, the plumed knight, was the leading candidate but his old enemy Roscoe Conkling of New York and other Republican leaders combined to block his nomination. The party turned to dark-horse Rutherford B. Hayes of Ohio. And again a bearded war veteran carried the G. O. P. standard to victory—this time by an eye-lash in the famous Hayes-Tilden contest which the Democrats accused the Republicans of stealing.

Tomorrow: Bryan sets the prairies afire.

At the regular morning worship service at the Krumville Reformed Church at 11 o'clock next Sunday morning, it is expected the pastor will receive many new members into the fellowship of the church; many by transfer from other churches. A special program of music is being arranged. Deacon Loren Hover and Charles Eckert will sing a duet, and the Donaldson sisters of Kingston will sing two special numbers. The message of the day will be brought by the pastor, subject of which will be "Good Old Times." Subject of children's sermon will be "The Rose."

TORPEDO BOAT LIKE THIS AVAILABLE TO BRITAIN

A storm of criticism followed the announcement by the U. S. Navy that it had cleared the way for the Electric Boat Co. of Groton, Conn., to sell to the British 20 high speed submarine chasers and motor torpedo boats originally ordered for Uncle Sam's fleet. The torpedo boat shown here in the Anacostia river at Washington, D. C., was built at the Bayonne, N. J., plant of the company and is the only one received by the navy so far. It carries four torpedoes, four machine guns in two twin mounts and a generating apparatus. This boat will not be turned over to the British.

Huge U. S. Ship Nearly Ready

Largest Liner Ever Built Here to Be Finished Late in June.

NEW YORK.—The America, largest liner ever built in the United States, is rapidly nearing completion in Newport News, Va.

The 30,000-ton vessel is scheduled to be delivered to its owners—the United States Lines—on June 28, after a series of trial runs.

Construction of the vessel represents nearly five years of negotiations, planning, designing and building. Total cost is approximately $17,000,000.

Originally built for the New York-Southampton-Cherbourg-Hamburg transatlantic express service, the owners of the America with the advent of a European war are faced with the problem of what to do with the ship.

Since the restrictions of the United States neutrality act forbade ships with the American flag to enter waters of belligerent nations, the United States Lines' main service has been maintained by its liners Manhattan and George Washington plying between New York and Genoa. However, it was felt that there is not sufficient freight and passenger service on this run to warrant arming the America to it.

Regardless of what service it eventually may enter, the completion of the America gives the United States merchant marine a vessel which is big, fast, comfortable, and above all, seaworthy and safe.

In keeping with its name, the America is really an American ship. Nearly all of the 48 states contributed some material for its construction. The job of interior decorating was done mostly by two young American women—Dorothy Marckwald and Anne Urquhart, who are pioneers in what has always been the very masculine profession of shipbuilding.

The mural decorations are being done by eight well-known American artists—Barry Faulkner, noted for his map-charts; Pierre Bourdelle, who has invented a secret process for making mural decorations of carved linoleum, treated with paint, gold and silver leaf, lacquer and wax; Constantin Alajalov, famous for his amusing drawings; Griffith Coale, Hildredth Miere, Charles Baskerville, Andre Durenceau and Austin Purves Jr. No foreign or "period" styles will be seen anywhere, but only American contemporary trends.

Accommodations are provided for 577 cabin (first class) passengers, 400 in tourist class and 233 in third. A crew of 639 officers and men will man the vessel. There are eight elevators on the ship—and even the third class will have one. All cabins in the first and tourist class will have adjoining bathrooms. There are 24 public rooms, large swimming pool, garage, post office, kennels, telephone service and many other conveniences. The promenade deck is enclosed in glass from top to bottom, so that one can see the ocean sitting in a deck chair, without the necessity of arising to look over the rail.

Some of the details about the ship are as follows:

Displacement, 34,370 tons.
Gross tonnage, 30,000 tons (estimated).
Length, 723 feet.
Beam, 92 feet.
Power, 34,000 shaft horsepower.
Number of stacks, 2.
Cost, $17,000,000.

Men employed in building, average of 1,200 for 130 weeks.
Number of decks, 11.
Elevators, 8.

Museum Party to Study
Bogs of New Jersey

TRENTON, N. J. — The 30,000 acres of salt water swampland in Bergen, Hudson, Essex and Union counties were once covered by thick cedar forests which sheltered bands of bandits in the 1700's, the state department of conservation disclosed in announcing that the American Museum of Natural History would explore the area.

Many of the trees, the report said, were felled or burned to "destroy cover for the outlaws who lay in wait for foot travelers or coaches."

Fires set by railroad locomotives, inundations from the ocean and exploitation by lumbermen completed the process of converting the area into a wasteland, the department said.

Flat Feet Are No Longer
Bar to Army Recruits

BUFFALO.—Eye and teeth defects have replaced flat feet as a major cause of rejecting applicants for enlistment in military services here.

This is agreed by non-commissioned officers in charge of Buffalo's army, navy and marine corps recruiting stations.

"We don't get one in 50 with flat feet now," First Sergeant Ralph W. Carrington, U. S. M. C., explained, "although that used to be one of the major causes for rejection during the World War."

"Weak vision and an inadequate number of sound teeth reject many applicants now."

Saved
Kansas City—A red cow won a reprieve from the packing house by giving birth to triplet heifer calves.

Veterinarians said triplet calves are "very rare."

FARILLA MCKINNON

Two McKinnons Receive Degrees

Miss Farilla McKinnon and her brother, Edward, of 36 Tietjen avenue, this city, both received college degrees within the last week, their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKinnon, announced today.

Miss Farilla McKinnon, a graduate of Kingston High School and of Westchester State Teachers' College, received a Master of Science degree at Rutgers University. Before attending Rutgers, she received credit from New York University, Hunter College and Columbia University toward her B.S. degree.

The local young woman has held two positions as teacher, one in the Hillburn public schools and the present one at Asbury Park, N. J.

Edward McKinnon received the degree of Bachelor of Science at Wilberforce University in Ohio. His father and Donald B. Jacobs, a graduate of Wilberforce, class of '39, attended the graduation.

Before entering college, young McKinnon was well known locally for his talent in music. He was employed for a time at the Governor Clinton Hotel following his graduation from the local high school.

At college Edward maintained a high scholastic rating. He was chosen psychology assistant to Dr. Charles L. Ridley and was in charge of the freshman, general psychology class. He received a scholarship toward part of his tuition for three years. During the past year he was appointed to the secretary-treasurer's office in conjunction with scholarship work.

Extra curricular activities included: member of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity; Lindell Philosophy Club, varsity boxing team, Glee

Wm. J. Myra S. Whiston Sent in Communication

At the Board of Public Works meeting on Tuesday William J. and Myra S. Whiston sent in a communication that they were willing to deed the city property at 121-135 Linderman avenue for sidewalk purposes, provided the city agreed to erect a retaining wall in front of the property and rebuild the steps.

The city engineer informed the board that on that section of Linderman avenue there were no sidewalks, and to make room for sidewalks it was necessary to have the property owners furnish the land needed for that purpose.

The communication was filed. In Wednesday's issue of The Freeman it was incorrectly stated that Myra S. Whiston sent in the communication.

Women Run Hospitals

For many a year, women have claimed as their own the high executive positions in the profession of hospital administration.

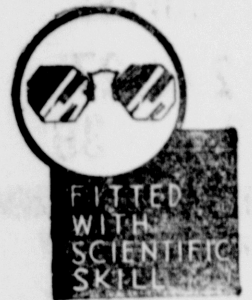

Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern, director of the American College of Surgeons, pointed this out recently.

"The reason for this," said Dr. MacEachern, "is the close relationship between nursing and hospital administration. Nurse executives are concerned with the problems of hospital administration and thus are prepared for the duties of hospital management."

The high percentage of women in the profession, believes Miss Nellie G. Brown, superintendent of Ball Memorial hospital, Muncie, Ind., the famed "Middletown," is due to women who started as head nurses in the small hospitals, which total 75 per cent of the nation's general hospitals. A "small" hospital is one which has fewer than 100 beds.

"Often, a superintendent of one of the smaller hospitals is simply a head nurse with some idea of menu making, X-ray and the workings of the laboratory," said Miss Brown. "In time, the small place becomes larger. Her own abilities increase and she finds herself an important administrator of a thriving hospital."

San Francisco Remembers Stevenson With Monument

Tourists to San Francisco are shown the little square at the edge of Chinatown where Robert Louis Stevenson sat and passed the time of day with sailors, booted miners and wanderers from everywhere, back in the seventies.

Called Portsmouth square, it is a historic spot. Around it grew up the little village of Yerba Buena, later called San Francisco. The town's first hotel, theater and schoolhouse faced the square. Capt. John Montgomery of the United States sloop-of-war Portsmouth seized Yerba Buena and raised the American flag in the square on July 9, 1846, during the Mexican war. From his ship the square got its name.

Stevenson was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on November 13, 1850—just 89 years ago. A wanderer at heart, the frail man, in his twenties, landed on the East coast, then came west by emigrant train.

Motley crowds of people from all quarters of the globe haunted the square when Stevenson frequented it. Among them the slender writer found inspiration for his tales, as he observed strange characters and listened to their yarns. For hours at a time he sat on a bench in the sun, hearing stories about China, the South Seas and strange ports and peoples. It is said that some of these aroused in him a romantic interest in Samoa, where later he visited and died, at lonely Apia.

Portsmouth square remembers "R. L. S." with a monument, the first ever erected to his memory. A simple rectangular block of Sierra granite, it is surmounted by a golden galleon, the Hispaniola of "Treasure Island." A quotation from the writer's "Christmas Sermon" is inscribed thereon: "To be honest, to be kind..."

The scene from Stevenson's day hasn't changed much. Today there are sailors on leave, adventurers and peoples of many races to be found in the square. Chinese children romp on the grass, while their elders doze in the sun. Latin and Oriental boys with bootblack boxes made the rounds—"Shine? Five cents!"

Claim Palace in Haiti Air-Cooled 130 Years Ago

To those who imagine that the idea of air conditioning is new it comes as a surprise to learn that an effective system was put in effect over 130 years ago by the black Emperor Henri Christophe in his palace at Sans Souci, in Haiti.

Christophe, the most despotic king of his day, employed air conditioning to cool his regal palace rooms as long ago as 1808.

Built over a rushing mountain stream in order to permit the cool waters to refresh the regal rooms, this palace contained a sumptuous banquet hall and chamber of gilt mirrors that held a richly carved mahogany throne. Other rooms contained Gobelin tapestries and paintings of old masters, a great library brought from Europe, but never touched, as Christophe could neither read nor write.

Even in its present state of ruin and decay, Sans Souci is splendid. In its heyday it was approached through a huge gateway guarded by gold-colored sentry boxes, which are still standing, guarding this spectre of a glamorous past.

From this palace tourists proceed by mule or horseback through Haitian jungle, coffee, banana and orange groves to the Citadel of La Ferriere, also built by the black king, on the crest of a jungle-clad mountain.

Historic Earthworks Preserved

Unique among the national historic sites preserved and maintained in Canada by the national parks bureau, department of mines and resources, Ottawa, is the Southwold earthwork, near St. Thomas, Ont.

These aboriginal works, which cover about three and a half acres, are believed to have been erected by the Attiwandaronk or "Neutral" Indians. When the Attiwandaronks were driven from Ontario by the Iroquois about 1650 this prehistoric earthwork is thought to have been the scene of their last stand against the triumphant Iroquois warriors.

Canadian archeologists and officials of the Smithsonian Institution of Washington have declared this Indian fortification to be the only one of its kind in Canada.

The site comprises the ruins of a unique double-walled fort protected by a double line of earthworks by which it was completely inclosed.

Steel Per Family in '39
Approximately 2,295 pounds of finished steel were used for each American family in 1939. The apparent consumption per family last year was almost 70 per cent more than the total for 1938, but substantially below 1937, 1929 and several other years. The apparent annual consumption is calculated by adding the domestic production of finished steel the tonnage imported, and deducting the tonnage exported. Final data for 1938 indicate that about 1,375 pounds of finished steel were consumed per American family that year, and 2,950 in 1929.

The United States Army announced today that a special course for the training of 500 business and professional men in military training camp will be established in the Second Corps Area during the period July 5 to August 3, at Plattsburg Barracks, Plattsburg, N. Y. Lieut.-General Hugh A. Drum, Commanding General of the Second Corps Area issued instructions today that every effort would be made by the Regular Army to accept qualified applicants and to conduct the special military course at Plattsburg Barracks.

Men between the ages of 25 to 50 years inclusive will be offered the opportunity to attend the special military course. Applicants who are accepted will provide transportation at their own expense and will pay for their own meals at the Regular Army ration rate for the camp. No obligation rests upon these trainees for military service in the Regular Army, and no commissions will be granted on completion of the camp.

The decision to hold these camps was reached by the War Department in response to request made by the Military Training Camps Association with headquarters at 28 West 44th street, New York city. N. Y. Colonel Julius Ochs Adler, Civilian Aide to the Secretary of War, emphasized today that special attention has been given to older applicants in age groups from 40 to 50 years. Col. Adler said that the response on the part of patriotic citizens in this age group has been an unusual expression of the determination of older men to show Young America the way to become adequately prepared for National Defense.

Chapter 34 Reunion

"OLD GREGORY is hard-headed and practical. Never encouraged the boy with his music. Wanted him to learn finance." Doctor Burlington informed Jan.

"But now—now he must be proud?"

"Proud as a peacock! We may see him this evening. Have you known Derek long, Miss Merriner?"

Jan kept her eyes shyly on the triangular velvet bag in her lap. "Not very long," she said softly. "He and my brother were friends out on the Coast. Oh, I do hope his debut is a success!"

Doctor Murray adroitly changed the subject, leaving her to her private thoughts and dreams until they were in the box in the great auditorium and the lights were dimmed and Jan leaned forward, her lips parted in breathless joy, to see Derek seated at the piano in the center of the stage, a warm, faint smile on his strained white face.

"My Derek," her heart whispered, defying the ridicule of her mind.

The first deep tones of Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto in C Minor lifted into the hush. Jan leaned back, her eyes half-closed, her heart pounding at her ribs, reveling in the glorious, somber music. Following this came Beethoven's Sixth Symphony and Liszt's Fourth Hungarian Rhapsody, then in the few seconds before the beginning of Derek's concerto, she sensed the straining expectancy of the listeners, the speculation that set them on edge and sharpened their ears. Her own ears actually pained from tensed nerves. Someone put a pair of opera glasses in her hand and she focused them on Derek, her heart seemed to be turning handspins in her breast. Her lips moved in earnest, unconscious prayer and then, swelling to the roof were magnificent, thrilling tones which brought tears to her eyes!

On and on swept the splendid flood of sound, telling a story of heartbreak and fear and death and birth and joy, penetrating into the hearts and souls of amazed, incredulous listeners, ending on a whisper of minor lullaby.

Then people were clapping, standing up to shout "Bravo! Bravo!" while the young composer bowed his head, his face very white, his tall, thin body visibly shaken.

After the concert Doctor Burlington held a whispered conference with Doctor Murray. Then the curtains enclosing the box were parted and Derek stood looking at her.

"Jan! What in the world are you doing here?"

"All of my pretty rehearsed speeches fled into the limbo of lost words and all she could do was look up at him and weep. He held out his arms and she stumbled into them.

"How's the old abductor doing? Arne? You right proud of him?" he grinned down at her. On a whisper he said, "I was thinking of you when I played, realizing it was you who made it all possible!"

"Your music is—what you always wanted it to be," she managed to say.

"Wait For Me!"

THEN, abruptly, the spell of happy reunion was broken, and she was being swept with a tide of people to the foyer below being separated from Derek who was smiling and bowing and acknowledging congratulations.

"Wait for me, Jan," he called to her across intervening heads. She tried to stand still and couldn't because of the resistless pressure of milling people and, in the orderly confusion, she lost sight of Doctor Murray and the others with him and found herself alone in a corner.

Well, what did it matter if she were lost? She could see Derek, towering a head above the crowd, turning this way and that seeking to escape to her. She was content to wait. Blissfully content.

Now as the crowd thinned she worked her way toward him, shivering slightly with nervous reaction. Yet before she could reach him she saw a tall, fabulously beautiful girl in white ermine slip her arm possessively through his and kiss him affectionately as cameras flashed. Jan stopped, remembering. This was the girl of the newspaper picture, Lenore Page. The woman Derek had loved so desperately.

Choking back a sob she turned the deep shirred collar of her wrap up about her face and darted toward the nearest exit, found herself caught in a human wedge and begged in muffled tones: "Excuse me, please! Please let me through!"

But before she succeeded a firm arm caught her shoulder and pulled her backward. "What's the idea of running out on a celebrity?" Derek scolded into her small, pink ear. "I thought you'd have a lot of things to say to me."

She kept her eyes determinedly on his starched shirt front. "I did forget to thank you for selling my sketches," she said in stiff, formal tones. "It was so very kind of you to bother. They ordered more. I guess I'm a celebrity, too, in a small way."

"Then we've got to celebrate!" he insisted.

I Know Something Good About You

Wouldn't this old world be better, if the folks we meet would say: "I know something good about you" and treat us just that way?

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy if each handshake warm and true carried with it the assurance: "I know something good about you"?

Wouldn't life be more happy if the good that's in all of us, were the only thing about us that folks bother to recall?

Wouldn't life be lots more happy if we praised the good we see, For there is such a lot of goodness in the worst of you and me?

Wouldn't it be nice to practice that fine way of thinking, too? You know something good about me, "I know something good about you"?

Practice makes perfect even after you have reformed: Slippery Sam, the pickpocket, decided to go straight, and applied for a job on the farm.

Farmer—Hm, you might do. Are you a good lifter?

Sam (surprised)—Well, judge for yourself. Here's your watch.

Voluntary help sometimes has its drawbacks: Their hostess was without a maid for the time being, so when dinner was over, the guests all decided to lend a helping hand by removing the dishes to the kitchen.

The hostess gave a horrified scream when she saw them stacking the plates.

Hostess (wailing)—Oh, why did you do that? Now I'll have to wash the bottoms.

Considering the handicap in the name, Texas has certainly made wonderful progress as a state. A simple little confusion of the letters turns the name into "Texes," which, by the way, has become a synonym for government.

A woman came into the car with five children. She busied herself in seating them.

A sailor arose and gave her his seat. Sailor—Are these your children, madam, or is it a picnic?

Woman (snapping)—They're all mine, and it's no picnic.

There should be something greater than the noise we hear on the radio programs... the thrill from pictures... and the restless going and coming of everyone to this life... Everyone is looking for something solid to grasp, and failing to find it, are giving us a spirit of restlessness that will lead to a world filled with more unrest.

Guide—This castle has stood for 600 years. Not a stone has been touched, nothing altered, nothing replaced.

Visitor—Um, they must have the same landlord we have.

Happiness

To find a career to which you are adapted by nature, and then to work hard at it, is about as near a formula for success and happiness as the world provides.

Once the career is found the hard work takes care of itself—in fact, it becomes not hard work at all.

Steady habits also count: New Yorker (to another)—We had a fine sunrise this morning. Did you see it?

Other New Yorker—Sunrise? Why I'm always in bed before sunrise.

The Evening Battle at Home

Mary dotes on saxey jazz, she thinks it just the thing; While Junior also raves about the bands that feature "swing."

Mother likes the mystery tales, "Crime can't come too thick!" While poor Pat's simply out of luck—he only wants music.

We have seen young men who thought they had one: Young Man (entering barber shop)—I want my mustache dyed. Barber (politely)—Certainly. Did you bring it with you?

Heart Holds Store Of Negative Power

by HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Seattle, June 20 (P)—A discovery that the heart is a powerhouse of negative electricity was announced to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here today.

The discovery was interpreted by its authors as a new explanation of the workings of metabolism, which is the energy production of living tissues.

The negative electricity discovery was reported jointly by Dr. George W. Crile, surgeon, Dr. Otto Glasser, physicist, and Daniel P. Quiring, anatomist, of Cleveland.

They measured the electrical charge on the red corpuscles of the blood. This charge, they said, is a negative electrical potential, averaging in animals four thousandths of a volt. Their experiments showed that the red corpuscles take on the charge as a result of the heart beat. Always there was a rise or fall of electrical potential of the red cells with the heart rate.

Dr. Crile said this explains for the first time why the body is electrically negative, while the brain and nervous system are electrically positive. The negatively charged red corpuscles, three trillion in number, travel through 62,000 miles of capillaries and in so doing transfer some of their negative charge to the tissues.

Changes in Industry Speeded Up by Science

Many years ago Lord Kelvin said that in order to understand anything one must measure it. Industry on the whole was rather slow to learn the lesson, but today there is a new standard of certainty, based on scientific measurement, which has invaded every branch of the industrial and engineering field.

To take a few examples from the railways: The comfortable riding of rail coaches, the sources of noise, the movement of a wheel along the rail, the vertical movements of the rails when under load, and the resistance of materials to wear—these are no longer left to personal impressions, which are so liable to error and leave no record for subsequent comparison. Measurement provides a new basis for progress.

"The sovereignty of man lieth hid in knowledge." There is every reason to be proud of the achievements of this country in the application of science to the needs of the world today, writes Sir Harold Hartley in "Technology Review." Americans were the first to realize for their own vast homogeneous internal market the immense potentialities of mechanized production—production which was made possible by scientific control and which has done so much in so many ways to diversify the pattern of life for this generation. But in our technical enthusiasm we must not forget that the human problems of management present much more difficulty than the choosing and working of inanimate material.

Maine Plans to Restock Their Fishing Streams

Seeking to maintain its claim to being the "fisherman's paradise," Maine has undertaken an intensive program to stock its streams and coastal waterways.

The fish and game department recently released 10,000 four-to-six-inch trout in the Cumberland county waters and now is seeking to increase the number of fighting Atlantic salmon in its streams.

Gov. Lewis O. Barrows ordered the departments of inland fisheries and game, and sea and shore fisheries, to undertake a joint survey of all known and potential salmon rivers to discover ways and means of bringing back the salmon in large numbers.

The governor also proposed that the U. S. bureau of fisheries convert their Craig Brook hatchery at Orland into an exclusive salmon plant, and Washington has sent a specialist to investigate the situation. The hatchery is working only with trout now.

It was suggested that legislation be enacted whereby the state could take over and destroy salmon weirs and reimburse the owners for their losses. The state, according to Barrows, already is prepared to make improvements in fishways, dams, and to clear streams.

The mouth of the Niger river in Africa went undiscovered by modern explorers until 1830.

Supreme Court Delivers Tribute To F. G. Traver

The May term of Supreme Court was adjourned without date Wednesday afternoon by Supreme Court Justice William H. Murray "out of respect to the memory of the late County Judge Frederick G. Traver" and a resolution offered by the Grand Jury in handing up its report expressing the distinct loss which the county has suffered in his passing was ordered spread in full upon the minutes of the court.

The Grand Jury made its final report handing up six sealed indictments and as a part of its report offered the following resolution which was read into the minutes:

Whereas, God in his infinite wisdom has seen fit to call unto himself the Honorable Frederick G. Traver, and

Whereas, this Grand Jury of the May Term of the Supreme Court, representing as it does, many portions of the County of Ulster, and

Whereas, many of the members of this Grand Jury have known Judge Traver for a great number of years and have learned to respect his wisdom, advice, and fairness, and

Whereas, this Grand Jury feels that the County of Ulster has suffered a distinct loss in the passing of so distinguished a jurist, and

Whereas, the qualities that endeared Judge Traver to the people of Ulster county were such that they might indeed be set as a standard of behavior and conduct for many public officers, and

Whereas, all the people of Ulster county, regardless of race, color, creed, or political preference, feel, we are sure, that in his passing they have lost a personal friend whose every act, private or official was toward one goal, and that goal making this world a better place to live in and

Whereas, the great ability and admirable qualities of mind and heart of Judge Traver devoted as they were to the service of this county for a long period of time have been and always will be an inspiration of achievement to his fellow citizens, and

Whereas, Judge Traver has throughout his career personified the highest ideals in public service and unselfishness for the welfare of his fellow man.

Therefore Be It Resolved, that we, the members of the present Grand Jury speaking for ourselves and our neighbors feel that we have lost a personal friend and a valued, loyal and devoted public servant.

Be It Further Resolved, that this resolution be spread in full upon the minutes of this court and that when this term of court adjourns, it do so out of the respect to the memory of the late, Frederick G. Traver.

Prairies Have Big Variety of Plants

Professors Report Tests in Four States.

ALLIANCE, NEB.—At least 237 kinds of plants compose the average middle western prairie, J. E. Weaver and S. E. Shively of the University of Nebraska's department of botany reported following tests throughout Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado.

More than 10 tons of soil were removed from the prairies and sent to the university laboratories where it was washed and the plant material weighed and measured.

More than 200 miles of roots are contained in a strip of prairie sod 100 inches long, six inches wide and four inches deep, the scientists reported.

They explained that four-inch deep strip of soil is anchored by two to four tons of roots per acre while all the organic matter in the soil weighs between 30 and 40 tons.

This vast amount of underground material developed by native grasses is given as the principal reason for the freedom from weeds and eroded plots of virgin prairies.

About 14 per cent of the species absorb moisture in the surface two feet of soil; 21 per cent from two to five feet, and 65 per cent have roots reaching deeper than five feet down, sometimes as far as 20 feet, the report stated.

A prairie composed mostly of blue stem grass will absorb as high as 53 tons of rainfall per acre. Even buffalo grass will intercept more than 23 tons per acre.

Birthplace of Saint

Francis Is Established
ASSISI, ITALY.—A Franciscan friar, Padre Giuseppe Abate, says he has definitely established the birthplace of Saint Francis.

The friar, noted as a historian and an expert in research work, spent months digging into the dusty files of the Assisi archives and deciphered over 100,000 documents dating from the Thirteenth to the Seventeenth century.

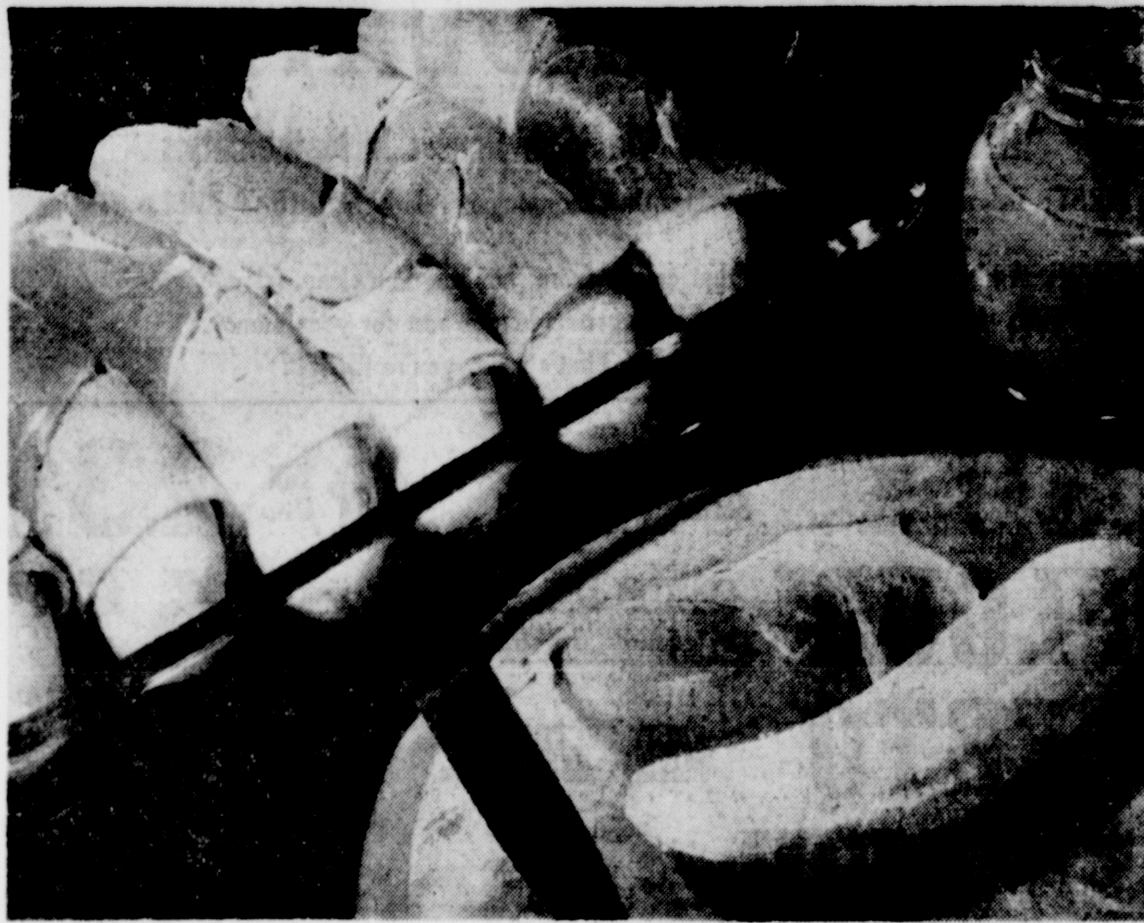

His work, he said, confirmed the tradition that the saint was born in a "stalleta," or little stable, which stands wedged in between two Twelfth century buildings in the Piazzola di Santo Francesco.

Mouse Adds Bit More To Church Informality

REDDING, CALIF.—The Rev. Wallace Buckingham of the Redding Baptist church had just finished telling his congregation that he would make the meeting informal when it suddenly became more informal than he had planned.

A mouse ran up his trouser leg. He tried to ignore it. Then it peeped out of his coat sleeve. The pastor continued talking. Then the mouse ran up his back, and finally down his leg, the worshippers in the front pews rocking with suppressed laughter. "I guess he thought I was the big cheese," was the pastor's only comment.

Banana Ham Roll-Ups!

Wrap the bonny banana in a hunk of boiled ham; decorate with mustard; snuggle in cheese sauce; trust to the oven! Your reward for these simple attentions to a friendly fruit will be a shining time of palate pleasure.

Trick? There's no trick to this main course, luncheon dish or savory. The picture practically tells you how it's done, but for full details read the recipe below.

1 tablespoon soft butter

1 teaspoon prepared mustard

6 thin slices boiled ham
6 firm bananas, peeled
Cheese Sauce
Mix together butter and mustard and spread on ham. Wrap a slice of the prepared ham around each banana and fasten with tooth picks. Place into a buttered shallow baking pan and pour Cheese Sauce over bananas. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes, or until banana is tender—easily pierced with a fork. Serve hot with Cheese Sauce from the pan poured over each roll. 6 servings.

1½ cups grated American cheese

Crease Sauce

1½ tablespoons butter

1½ tablespoons flour

¾ cup milk

1½ cup grated American cheese

Melt butter, add flour and stir until smooth. Stir in milk slowly. Add cheese and cook, stirring constantly, until sauce is smooth and thickened. Makes 1 cup sauce.

4,000-Year-Old House

Discovered in Ireland

DUBLIN EIRE.—Excavation work in a group of Neolithic houses on Knockadon, once an island, now a peninsula in a lake, proves one of them the oldest house ever found in Eire, according to experts. The houses date from the late Stone age. One 32 feet long by 18 feet wide is 4,000 years old. Excavations at Lough Gur by Dr. S. P. O'Riordan of University College, Cork, disclosed valuable relics. A large stone circle, the finest of its kind in Ireland and probably the remains of a temple, contained tools, flint weapons, and "Beaker" pottery.

Coffee Coolers for Warm June Days

Hot coffee warms your soul but iced and frosted coffee cools you off! Coffee Coolers—shown here all in a row on something new in service trays—are glasses of fresh iced coffee filled with ice cream. The ice cream melts a little in the brew—to produce a guzzle worth gulping! The little cookies look professional—but note the easy recipe for reproducing them.

Coffee Coolers

First, be sure you make your iced coffee properly. Never use coffee which has been brewed and allowed to stand; use freshly made coffee every time. Make it double strength when you are going to ice it (ice dilutes the flavor) using four level tablespoons to each measuring cup of water. To make iced coffee, pour the hot, fresh coffee right over plenty of ice, placed in tall glasses. Don't fear breakage if you pour quickly and right on the ice. For frosted coffee you will want to remove the ice after coffee has chilled, then put into each glass a large scoop of ice cream in your favorite flavor. Below are suggested combinations.

For Coffee Coolers: Orange Ice

in iced coffee; chocolate ice cream in iced coffee, topped with whipped cream which has been flavored with angostura; coffee ice cream in iced coffee; or the old favorite—vanilla.

Fancy Biscuits

Use any favorite commercial packaged cookie or biscuit, or graham crackers. Spread on frosting—which may be flavored and tinted—either the boiled frosting or uncooked (made with confectioner's sugar). Top with tiny candies, chocolate shot, citron, candied cherries or other garnish. Serve with iced or frosted coffee.

Gasoline Prices

The Division of School Administrative Services has sent to school districts owning and operating their own buses the terms for the purchase of gasoline under state contract. Through arrangements made by the Division with the Division of Standards and Purchase it is possible for school districts to purchase other items in addition to gasoline under state contracts at material savings.

Lights of New York

By L. L. SEVENSON

Novelty: A young widow with a small daughter, she made every effort to conceal her extremely modest circumstances when a wealthy bachelor seemingly became interested in her. So, through sacrifices, she kept the child in a fashionable boarding school. Recently, Helene came home for vacation and the bachelor invited mother and daughter to a noon breakfast at one of the swank hotels. Sure of the child's table manners, he mother accepted. Helene ordered strawberries and cream and the mother and the host, a mixed grill. The strawberries appeared promptly but the grill didn't. So the host called the captain of the waiters and while Helene listened with undisguised interest, complaint about the service. When he had concluded, the child piped up, "By don't you take us where momm and I go? You don't have to wait there. You just put nickels in and food comes right out."

Street Scene: Children playing on the sidewalk alongside of the dingy streets of Hell's Kitchen. A broad-backed young man comes along, picks up a boy and a girl, slings them to his shoulder and trots toward a soda fountain. While the small boy, his hands gripped in tumbled black hair, shouts proudly to other kids, "He's my pop!" A wagon, gay with prisms, stops in front of a tenement and prospective customers come out to inspect the stock. A pa-faced woman, with a baby clutched to her breast, watches from a widow, a strange expression in her eyes as they rest on the blooms. Suddenly she holds the baby still and pulls down the shade.

Feminine: It was using the Children's Crusade when youngsters all over the country were contributing pennies to help boys and girls in war-torn Europe. The teacher in one of the sixth grade schools had carefully explained to her pupils that each child was to give one cent for each year of his or her age. Nevertheless, an 11-year-old girl turned in 21 cents. The teacher called her attention to the fact that she had given 10 cents too much but the little girl insisted the amount was correct so the teacher asked for an explanation.

"I didn't make a mistake," maintained the 11-year-old. "I heard my mother tell the election man a lady is never more and never less than 21."

Variation: One of the rapidly rising youngsters in the legitimate stage is Brenda Forbes, a sister of Ralph Forbes and quite a bit of an actress in her own right. Miss Forbes began her career in serious drama, playing Katharine Cornell's repertory company in such memorable productions as "Romeo and Juliet," "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," and others. Next she played with Orin Welles in "Heartbreak House," portraying a 70-year-old crone. Several Theater Guild productions followed. Now, on vacation from drama, Miss Forbes is singing, dancing and clowning in that hit intimate revue, "Two for the Show."

Trans-Pacific: One of the favorite gags among telegraph folk is an inquiry as to whether Shanghai is on the list of places to which those greetings can be sent for 25 cents. So when a young man came into a midtown office the other afternoon and asked that question, the young woman behind the counter merely turned up her nose. He repeated his inquiry and she snapped that Shanghai was entirely out-of-bounds. With at the young man said he was sorry because he had a sweetheart in Shanghai and wanted to send her a message. The girl came to life then and after a little investigation discovered that while Shanghai wasn't in the two-bit classification, there was a special greeting rate. And to the message to the far-away sweetheart was duly dispatched.

End Piece: Walter Houston and Francis Lederer dropped into Ruby Foo's Den the other evening and Lederer ordered a chicken sandwich. When it arrived, he asked for an extra plate, removed the pieces of chicken and told the waiter to take them back. The Chinese waiter asked if there was anything wrong with the chicken.

"No," replied Lederer. "I merely want to eat a couple of slices of bread but was ashamed to order them and nothing else."

Concert Pianist

CLARA CHICHESTER

By MARGUERITE HURTER

Woodstock, June 20—Artists who sit up in trees and hang from a cliff with paint-smeared palates are expected to fit in as part of the scenery of the artist colony, but artists who sit for hours practicing at a piano are likewise tucked away in the woods here and there.

Clara Chichester concert and radio pianist who has appeared with famous symphony orchestras from coast to coast is one of our top notch celebrities in Woodstock. Just to look at Clara is a treat, but to hear her at the piano is a thrill!

At the Ziegfeld Theatre on Sixth avenue in New York, hanging among the celebrities of gilt edge elegance you may find this same photograph of Clara Chichester hanging in the luxurious lobby lounge. Clara played the Ziegfeld Theatre and made a name for herself on the Gay White Way.

In her charming studio on Rock City road we stopped to call on Clara yesterday, and spent a refreshing hour admiring her flowers and photographs. Her studio has chic, and Clara is a lady of Sybaritic sense. Here couch is piled with the most tempting lot of satin cushions in the manner

Vitamin Cures

Troubles Arising From Eye Illness

Chicago, June 20 (AP)—New evidence that a vitamin cures certain kinds of eyestrain, burning and itching eyelids and painful sensitiveness to strong light was reported today.

Doctors who made similar tests found that riboflavin, part of the vitamin B complex, "caused prompt and sometimes dramatic relief" of such ocular symptoms in persons lacking enough of the vitamin in their diet.

Forty-seven patients with these eye disorders were cured by taking the vitamin in tablet or capsule form, it was reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Mild cases were cleared up by the concentrated vitamin in only 24 hours.

The report was made by the doctors, V. P. Sydenstricker and H. M. Cleckley of Augusta, Ga., W. H. Sebrell of Washington and H. D. Kruse of New York.

"Bad dietary habits with inadequate intake of milk, eggs and green vegetables were prevalent in the entire group," they said. Riboflavin is found also in liver, beef and dry or brewer's yeast.

Red Cross Fund

Reaches $12,700

A report from the town of Olive which boosted its total to $167.79 has raised the contributions to the Ulster County Chapter American Red Cross War Relief Fund to $12,741.55.

An announcement from national headquarters places the total of the nation-wide fund at $12,178,202 in the drive for the $20,000,000 fund.

A large quantity of wool suitable for knitting is now available at the local Red Cross office, 260 Fair street, Kingston. Volunteer workers are asked to call at the office and obtain a supply of this wool for transformation into needed clothing for refugees.

Lack of Tourists

Saves Family's Lives

GRINDELWALD, SWITZERLAND.—The absence of foreign tourists in Switzerland during the European war was a good thing for the proprietor of the Baeregg Mountain inn and his family. The inn remained empty and the proprietor and his family decided to move down to the village and close the inn. Text night an avalanche ripped its inn off its rock foundations and dumped a part of it on the Grindelwald glacier a thousand feet below.

The combined population of the states of Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma equals only seven per cent of the nation's total, yet these four states have 11 per cent of the country's motor trucks. Within these four southwestern states are 10,679 communities. Of these 3,887 towns and villages, or 36 per cent of the total, are dependent solely on motor vehicles for transportation and service.

moderne and the decor suggests the temperament of musician of moods.

Acclaimed by critics as a master of the piano, Madame Chichester has appeared in concerts and recitals often in Woodstock.

This summer at the Woodstock Playhouse, there will be a Chichester recital, and Clara will also go to Cape Cod for two recitals this season. She is a skilled musician, and particularly gifted in the art of teaching. She has developed a modern method for children and advanced pupils which includes harmony and musical appreciation. Teachers come to her studio in Woodstock from all parts of the country during the summer season to take a special five-weeks' master course. Most of these are from the south and middlewest. Many of her pupils are well known in concert and radio work. Kingston music lovers applauded Clara Chichester in Kingston on March 8 last, when she appeared as guest artist of the Musical Society of Kingston. She has many pupils in Kingston and Woodstock, and has been very successful in handling children. Kiki Randolph is one of the Woodstock youngsters developing under the Chichester method. There is a lot more to say about Clara and especially her jolly little dog, but as personalities go—just to look at Clara Chichester is enough!

MODES of the MOMENT

TOT'S SMART PLAY ENSEMBLE

Even a very tiny outdoor girl likes up-to-the-minute playclothes! This Marian Martin summer special, Pattern 9421, is every bit as new and smart as big sister's. That bare-to-the-sun midriff, so popular in grownup styles, is shown in a back-buttoning top that fastens to the shorts in a stunning front buttoned point. Stitch a tiny pocket onto the shorts, and use ric-rac generously for a colorful note. Both the jaunty jacket and the simple, Dutch-girl bonnet that's cut in one main piece are reversible, and both look gay lined to match the playsuit. Altogether one of the most novel sun outfits ever designed for a youngster.

Pattern 9421 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, playsuit and lining for bonnet and jacket, requires 3 yards 35 inch fabric; jacket and bonnet, 1 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric.

PROPER TO LEAVE LARGE RECEPTION WITHOUT SAYING GOOD-BYE IF GUEST'S STAY IS SHORT

This Rule is Repeated by Emily Post in Answer to Correspondent Who Questioned Good Taste

A letter in today's mail takes me to task for having printed in this column that it is sometimes proper for a guest to leave a party without saying "good-bye" and "thank you" to her hostess. The writer of this letter explains: "I did not read the advice myself but was told about it by a friend, who heard it from another friend who could not remember what reasons you had given. She even added that this other friend may have made a mistake. So I am writing to you to let the sincere hope that you will print your opinion in the paper because I can not imagine that you would tell any one to do anything so discourteous as that."

In answer to this, I have to acknowledge that the friend of your friend was quite right, but I am sorry she did not remember the exceptional occasion about which a reader asked. I did answer a young woman who was going to a big wedding reception at which she could stay only a very short time. She asked whether she ought to go at all since it seemed to her impolite to have to say good-bye almost immediately.

The correct answer to this exact question is that at a very large wedding reception or on any other occasion when one must leave in a very short time, it is more courteous to go away unnoticed than to break into a queue of arriving guests to say good-bye. The explanation of this is that in a crowd the hostess can not possibly notice any one person's absence, but to be interrupted while receiving by one who is so soon hurrying away gives her the impression that her party is a failure. For this reason it is a definite rule that one may leave any crowded gathering without calling attention to one's otherwise unobserved departure.

Taking-Leave Conversations

Dear Mrs. Post: It seems to me that taking-leave conversation between hostess and guest have become so mechanical as to be meaningless. The typical good-bye always sounds the same: (Guest) "Good-bye. We've had a lovely time; thank you for asking us." (Hostess) "Thank you for coming," or "I was glad you could come." Can't one vary these a little with other remarks that would be just as proper?

Answer: It is natural for people who know each other rather formally to exchange the typical "thank you's." But in other situations, no matter whether the guest or the hostess says good-bye first, the other one more or less answers whatever comes spontaneously. For examples:

Guest: "Thank you, Mary. I don't know when I've had such a good time."

Hostess: "We've loved having you."

Guest: "Good night. It's been wonderful seeing you."

Hostess: "I hope it won't be so long again."

Guest: "I've enjoyed myself so much. And what a wonderful dinner you gave us, Mary," or "I never tasted such delicious food," etc.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Do You Know You A B C's in Manners?" Be sure to send a three-cent, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

What if you must grope for a word? Rather than fill a gap with "er...er," pause an instant and think. And there's no danger of making an error in practice.

The National Safety Council is authority for the statement that during 1936, the last year for which reliable figures are available, 18,000 workers were accidentally killed in the various industries of the United States.

Public accidents, other than motor vehicle, reach the year's peak in July. For 1939, this meant 2,100 deaths and about 250,000 injuries. The July totals were more than twice as great as those of any winter month.

Warwick Chaplain Speaker at Rotary

The Rev. Over Carberry, Protestant chaplain for boys at Warwick, was the speaker at the weekly Rotary luncheon held Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The subject of his topic was "Treatment of Juvenile Delinquency."

In the rehabilitation of the young men, the Rev. Mr. Carberry stated that vocational training was stressed. Most of the inmates are from New York city and 90 per cent are white. Getting them interested in an occupation, so that they may become reinstated in useful trades was the former endeavor of the authorities.

Recreation and sports are a part of the program to keep them occupied and to build character. During both work and leisure they are under observation by the department officials. The library is also an important place in the institution, the young men being encouraged to read good literature.

Program Chairman John J. Egan introduced the speaker. Visitors were George Wicks and Thomas Compin.

Charges Against 3 Persons in Fatal Crash Dismissed

and suggested also that Clinton Ricketson of Saugerties be prosecuted in justice's court on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Six Dismissals

The three dismissals growing out of the Woodstock accident were among the six dismissals reported to Justice William H. Murray in the final report of the Grand Jury which also reported six additional sealed bills. In recommending that the criminal negligence charge against Wilbur, 78 Wiltwyck avenue, Kingston, driver of the car proceeding toward Bearsville, be dismissed the Grand Jury said that, while it appeared he was operating his car in a careless and improper manner, there were other factors in the case which it was believed would prevent conviction of criminal negligence and consequently the charge was dismissed with the recommendation that his license be revoked "permanently."

Wrong Plate Gets Driver in Trouble

Charging the operation of a three-ton G.M.C. motor truck on the public highway with a pleasure car license plate, Deputy Sheriff Ray Wigne last evening placed George Cam, 40, of Kerhonkson, under arrest and arraigned him before Justice of the Peace Friend E. Wilklow at Accord where a $10 fine was imposed and paid.

Deputy Wigne stopped the 1937 dump truck, owned by Byron Van Demark, automobile sales and service dealer at Accord, and charged the driver with operation of the truck without proper plates. He found one pleasure plate on the front of the truck and none on the rear.

The plate upside-down attracted the attention of the patrolling officer. Checking the ownership of the plate Officer Wigne found the plate had been issued to Harold W. Coddington of Stone Ridge for a 1939 Ford car and Coddington said the plate, 8D1760, had been lost last January from his car. The arrest was made on route 209.

dismissals in the case where Mrs. Mary McPhilly Davison of Poughkeepsie preferred charges of perjury against two local people and two Sullivan county men as a result of a difficulty she had back in 1938.

Mrs. Davison, it will be recalled, became involved in difficulty one Friday when she picketed the Kingston court house with "sandwich" signs charging that local courts were unfair. She was picked up charged with disorderly conduct by local police and later on an order of the Supreme Court a mental examination was made by two local physicians. She brought charges before the grand jury of perjury against the physicians as a result, claiming that the act took place on November 9, 1938, but the Grand Jury ruled that there was no basis for her charge and dismissed the complaint.

Dismissals also were found in her allegation of perjury against Howell Battey, former Middletown newspaper reporter and Attorney Isaac Silberman of Sullivan county who had appeared for Mrs. Davison. She claimed that the acts of perjury were committed by the two men on February 17 and September 2, 1938, in connection with a false imprisonment action which Mrs. Davison had in Sullivan county. Silberman was attorney for Mrs. Davison and Battey testified in the case. Mrs. Davison contended later that on a question of fees for her attorney a question was raised and she claimed that a different story was told when the matter came up in special term here. The perjury charge followed and was heard by the Grand Jury with the result there was found to be no basis for the charge.

Raymond Conner of Liebhardt, charged with burglarly, third degree, and unlawful entry had David Schoentag assigned by the court as counsel. Conner has pleaded not guilty.

All indictments were transferred by order of Justice Murray to County Court for disposition.

Wilfred Kenny of Peekskill, charged with abandonment of his children in March 1938, was in court. He has pleaded not guilty and had been making payments for their support, but ceased to remit. He said he had paid $60 in six weeks but was now out of a job but he intended to make payment again when he secured work. The complaint was made by the local Welfare Department which had Kenny picked up at Peekskill. He was put on parole and told to get a job and make payments as directed by city court or he would land back in jail here. He promised to pay. Court adjourned without date.

Recs Blast Red Caps, 21-0; Boxing Show Ready for Friday

Locals Smash Five Homers as Visitors Play Ragged Ball

Losing Red Cappers Use Three Hurlers; Maines and Celuch Lead Recs Batters

It will be a long time before last night's game at the Stadium is forgotten by the most rabid fans. Displaying the lowest brand of baseball ever in this city, the Penn Red Caps were struck savagely from all corners and left the field on the very short end of a 21-0 count. In case the Cappers forgot, they played Custer's Recs and not any major league team.

While Charlie Neff and Howie Brooks hurled a combined two-hit game (both hits given by Neff), the Recs took advantage of the many errors produced by the siffling Penn defense and rammed over runs at will. The offerings of Bob Gray, Gavin and Coats were lambasted for five homers, Tommy Maines, George McLean, Jack Schatzel, Andy Celuch and Bill Thomas but most of these cracks would have been held to at least two bases by other clubs. Led by the noted Chappie Johnson, the Red Caps came into town for the first nocturnal with high rating. After the long debacle had finished (it took about three solid hours) the Pennsylvania boys left in a hurry, having given Kingston rooters their worst baseball attraction in many a year.

Big Third

The sluggish visitors held Kingston a 1-0 lead for the first two frames. But after that was just a question as to what the final count would be. For awhile Manager Charlie Huston and some of the Kingston fans were seriously pondering the idea that the lights might not hold out for the duration of the so-called game. The Recs really hit pay-dirt in the third when six runs were shoved in on four hits and a liberal count of two errors.

Singles by Chappie VanDerzee, Vince Smodes, and Andy Celuch and a booming triple into deep left off the bat of Tommy Maines, provided the big fireworks in this session. A couple of errors and a fielder's choice did the rest of the play-making. The Recs poured back in the fourth on walks to Smodes, Tiano and Neff and solo drives by George Zadany and Andy Celuch (who got five for six). Two markers were tallied in this inning.

Another big frame came in the sixth with Gavin doing the flinging for the hapless Red Caps. Maines started off with a homer. After two were out Chappie VanDerzee and George McLean pounded out homers to make the game a complete mess. Before the frame had expired exactly five runs were collected by the Hustons.

But that wasn't all. In the seventh Zadany walked, Maines singled and after Thomas popped out, Schatzel and Celuch followed with successive round-trippers. The home run parade continued in the eighth (Kingston's final opportunity to do scoring). Smodes, Zadany and Maines blasted out singles in succession without any hits coming. The fifth and final Kingston homer came next as Bill Thomas leaped on one and sent it down the left field foul line.

Weak Hitters

While the Recs' batters were having a field day Charlie Neff squeezed along for his third triumph of the year. After pitching two-hit ball for the first seven frames, Neff gave way to Howie Brooks who continued the hurling spell on the weak Penn Red Caps batters (?). Only three balls were hit out of the infield. Campbell singled in the first but was cut down. Bryant slid deep to center and left for the only other cracks during past the infield. That was the total of the losers hitting power.

Press Box Jottings

Despite five errors Kingston's defense looked pretty good on double-play balls. Neff pocketed a popper and threw to VanDerzee (covering third) for one. Schatzel held on to a line drive and then stepped on first for the second and the final was registered when Celuch took Ken Brown's liner and quickly threw to first and doubled up Dixon who went to second on the hit and run play. "We all thought the Thelander was off color. We can't describe the Penn Red Caps. . . . Celuch continued his fine hitting, five hits in six trips to the plate. That boosted his average plenty. . . . George Zadany snapped out of his slump with a couple of hits. . . . Tommy Maines really hits the jackpot with four hits, two singles, a triple and a homer. He socked in four runs. . . . Neff bled along on the front of 8 strikeouts. His mastery was complete. . . . Nothing definite has been announced for Sunday. From all reports the Recs will "hit the road" for the first time this season. . . . Next Wednesday's attraction (we hope) at the stadium will be Buck Ewing's Mohawk Colored Giants.

Lane No. 7 lived up to its reputation of turning out Poughkeepsie winners. It has delivered four of the last five. . . . La Hienle, carrying her ice in platinum, is decorating the Chicago boulevards for a few days.

Today's Guest Star

Dick Walsh, Albany (N. Y.) Times-Union: "They're striking up the old Tiger Rag in Detroit again, and for the first time since 1936 it's ringing with sincerity. . . . With the Tigers riding along in second place, the other clubs are beginning to think seriously about 'Hold that Tiger'."

Latest dope is Arthur Donovan will get the refereeing assignment tonight, despite his magazine piece picking Louis. . . . Black daps have come upon Bill Dickey. He's now batting in seventh position for the Yanks, with only Babe Dahlgren and the pitchers between him and the bottom. . . . Jack Kearns, who got out of boxing to market a scrap iron crushing machine, blew in for the fight. . . . So did Bob Pastor, who'll probably be in there against Louis in the fall. . . . Slip Madigan, 20 pounds heavier and much happier, is driving east for a month's vacation. . . . Guessing is, Medwick is out for at least a month.

Blame Ill Dushay

Three Washington players were asked to explain the deep slump of the Senators. . . . "It's all on account of Italy getting into the war," one said. . . . Italy getting into the war unnerved Bananas Bonura. . . . He can't sleep no more. . . . He can't eat no more. . . . He can't field no more. . . . And everybody's slumping in sympathy with Zeke."

Red Cross Dept.

Members of the Rockville Country Club at Rockville Center, L. I., have hit upon a novel plan to help the Red Cross. . . . They'll contribute a portion of their July 4 side bet winnings. . . . A good-looking member of the Red Cross will be stationed at the 18th hole to collect the dough. . . . It would be nice if golf clubs all over the country would swipe the idea.

Ouch!

Lake Erie College, in a semi-final match today at Longwood. The second and third seeded Katherine Hubbel of Dedham and Vassar and Christine Waples of Chicago and Bryn Mawr, will clash for the other finalist berth. Miss Bixler gave the seeded list its only denting yesterday when she defeated Frances Prindle of Vassar, 7-5, 6-8, 9-7, while the other favorites were advancing without being pressed.

Mickey Walker To Donate Services; Crowd Is Expected

Proceeds Will Be Given to Defray Expenses of State Civil Service Convention

At yesterday's meeting of the entertainment committee for State Civil Service convention, Mayor C. J. Heiselman complimented the members on their arrangements, praising them for their untiring efforts in behalf of boosting Kingston.

"We need these conventions to help Kingston," said the mayor, "and you men devoted your time and efforts on arrangements deserve a lot of credit."

Mickey Walker, whose name means much when advertised on a boxing poster, received the plaudits from every member of the committee for his generous offer to be honorary sponsor of the convention boxing show free of charge.

Walker will personally supervise the card of boxing bouts in the Municipal Auditorium Friday night for the entertainment of the delegates and the public.

"I realize full well that Kingston needs these conventions and I deem it an honor to have been asked to help with this boxing show, the proceeds of which will go toward defraying expenses of bringing the convention to this city."

Mayor Heiselman said, "I hope the sports fans of Kingston will be civic minded Friday and turn out for the fine-looking card arranged by Mr. Walker and his director of bouts, Edward J. Noonan."

It was the consensus of the committee that at least 1,000 patrons would be at the auditorium for the fistie program, the first held at the Broadway arena since last fall. Featuring the bill of scraps is a five rounder between Joe Carter, Rome middleweight, who is champion of the Adirondack A. A. U., and Joe Marucco, North Adams, Mass., who holds the crown for his class in New England. In the semi-final, Kingston's Monk Armstrong, Diamond Belt champ in 1939, will slug it out with Jimmy Rouse, flashy Albany 160-pounder.

Other fights: Tommy Rotolo, Rome, vs. Joe DePaola, Albany, five rounds; Nick Orlando, Rome, vs. Larry Jones, Albany, three rounds; Harold Braithwaite, Rome, vs. Matt Baransky of Albany, three rounds; and a special heavyweight bout with Paul Jones, Kingston, and Joe Kaminski, Albany.

Officials are Bill Singer, referee; judges, Joe Coffey, Kingston, and Jack Daley, Rosendale; Mickey Walker, announcer, and timer, Morton Finch.

Those who attended yesterday's meeting were Allan Hanstein, Harry B. Walker, John J. Egan, R. R. Gross, E. Frank Flanagan, Mayor C. J. Heiselman, Alderman Paul Zucca and Mickey Walker.

New Rate Is Set To Govern Harness Racing in State

Albany, N. Y. June 20 (AP)—Admission to New York harness race meetings where pari-mutuel betting is conducted will cost a minimum of one dollar per person, including tax.

The three-man State Trotting Commission fixed the rate yesterday and adopted U. S. Trotting Association rules, with several additions, to govern the sport in New York.

These provide: The minimum purse for any harness race shall be $250 per heat or dash except in events for which entries closed and were declared full before today.

Officials shall subject the winning horse in every heat or race to the saliva test.

If two or more horses are coupled in the betting as an entry, and one horse or more of the entry shall be disqualified, then all horses of the entry shall be deemed disqualified and none of them shall be entitled to any part of purse or premium. In the case of a horse coupled in the betting as the field, however, only the offending horse shall be disqualified.

It's "May-time" in June this year for the Philadelphia Phillies. Doomed to last place by the unanimous vote of experts last winter, Doc Prothro's husters found themselves in the thick of the June battle for second division leadership through the efforts of their leading batsman, Merrill Glend May, former Indiana University climber, hitting at a .345 rate in mid-June.

Crash Injuries Fatal to Driver

Henry E. Mitchell, 33, of Plattkill, died in the Kingston Hospital on Wednesday of injuries suffered when his automobile upset Saturday on Route 55, in the town of Gardiner. Pinned beneath the car, he received a skull fracture and lacerations.

Trooper Klein of New Paltz, who investigated, reported that Mitchell's car was being driven by Edward Pastor, of Brooklyn, who escaped unhurt. The two men were employed on the New York aqueduct project.

The accident occurred when the car, which was headed east, failed to make a sharp right hand curve. It left the highway, hit an embankment and overturned.

The body was removed to the Walsh funeral parlors in Newburgh.

Hitch-Hiker to Capital

Keeps Expenses Down
TEMPLE, N. H.—Harold Edwards, 17, hitch-hiked to Washington, spent several days in the capital and returned—all for $3.75.

Sen. Charles W. Tobey was host to the youth, who arrived unannounced and serenaded his fellow townsman with a harmonica and guitar.

Edwards walked about six miles of the 1,000-mile round trip. En route to Washington he spent on, 30 cents, eating sandwiches he had put up before leaving Temple. In Washington he had his first ride on a street car and insisted on running up the steps inside Washington monument.
